

Please join us for an informal presentation by

Bosnian author and anthropologist

Dr. Sebina Sivac-Bryant

Free and Open to the Public

Thursday, May 26, 2016, 6:30 p.m.

102 Anheuser-Busch Hall

Fontbonne University

6800 Wydown Boulevard

St. Louis, MO 63105

Dr. Sivac-Bryant will speak about her new book

Re-Making Kozarac: Agency, Reconciliation, and Contested Return in Post-War Bosnia

Discussion to follow.

"A book about not just suffering, but survival – and return, literally... It starts with one of the little-told phenomena of recent military history, that of 'The Army of the Dispossessed', made up mostly of soldiers who had survived the camps and Serbian 'cleansing', fighting to go home, and documents the challenges that followed in re-making 'the biggest little city in the world.' Sebina knows this story from the inside – and her book is key to understanding Bosnia, Europe and the resilience of humankind."

– Ed Vulliamy, *The Guardian

This event is sponsored by the Bosnia Memory Project at Fontbonne University and St. Louis Bosnians, Inc. For additional information contact Dr. Ben Moore at bmoore@fontbonne.edu or 314-889-4553.