Discussion To Follow Reading Of Papers On "Personal Enemies Of God".

Fontbonne students will be hostesses at a convention of the College Sodality Union of St. Louis, Sunday afternoon, March 3, from 2:30 to 6:30 in the Fine Arts building. This convention is the second successive annual one to be held at Fontbonne.

The Reverend Roger Lyons, S.J., associate editor of the Queen's Work who is to conduct the convention, will initiate the program with a talk. Following this, papers will be read by students of the corporate colleges. Open discussion will follow the reading of each paper.

The topics of the papers will include "Personal Enemies of God in Russia", by Jane O'Connell of Fontbonne; "Personal Enemies of God in America", by John Boland of St. Louis University; "Personal Enemies of God in Mexico", by Lucille Geis of Webster College. Musical offerings, to be given by St. John's Hospital Glee Club and St. Mary's School of Nursing, will intersperse the talks. Refreshments and dancing are to follow the close of the convention.

Catherine Scullin, Marie Pfeifle, and Dorothy Coleman are in charge of general arrangements. The spiritual council will act on the reception committee.

Catharine Gunn Addresses Students Of Journalism

The first speaker this semester to address the Press Club will be Miss Catharine Allen Gunn, A.B., '28, Fontbonne. The talk will take place Friday, March 1, at 11:30 a. m. in the Press Room. Miss Gunn, at present a member of the advertising department of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, will speak on "Women In Advertising".

Formerly, Miss Gunn was the business manager of the Catholic Herald, Tucson, Arizona. During her college days at Fontbonne, she was associate editor of the Font and president of the senior class.

She has the further distinction of possessing the card which bears the matriculation number 1, being the first student to register at Fontbonne College when it opened September, 1923, at Carondelet.

Chairmen and Directors Named To Assist In Promoting Equestrian Event.

M. Roduit and T. Olivieri In St. L. U. Oratorical Contest

Oral eliminations for the annual Leo Moser oratorical contest of St. Louis University will be held Sunday afternoon, February 17, in the administration building of the university. Marguerite Roduit of the freshman class and Tattie Olivieri, sophomore, will be Fontbonne's representatives.

Each speaker on Sunday will be limited to the delivery of a five-minute extract of his oration. Final examinations are scheduled for next month, although the exact date has not as yet been announced.

The theme for this year's contest is Discoverers and Discoveries. Marguerite Roduit chose Hertz' Electrical Waves as the subject for her oration. Puerto Rico: Its Discovery and Development was treated by Tattie Olivieri. Both papers were retained in the original eliminations held in January. Ralph B. Wagner, Ph.D., director of Forensics and director of the speech department at St. Louis University, heads the committee in charge of the contest.

In the same contest last year Doreen McMahon of the present sophomore class by winning the prize medal brought the laurels to Fontbonne. She achieved the distinction of being the only girl as well as the only freshman to whom the award has ever been made.

Rev. T. M. Knapp, S. J. Speaks At Assembly On "Collegiate Ideals"

Prof. H. H. Coulson Also To Talk To Faculty and Students During Following Week.

Fontbonne faculty and students will be privileged to hear two prominent educators from St. Louis University speak on pertinent topics at the assembly periods of Monday, March 4 and March 11.

The Reverend Thomas M. Knapp, S.J., A.M., dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, will lecture March 4 on "Collegiate Ideals". Father Knapp is also chancellor of the University and regent of the Senior Corporate Colleges of the University.

On March 11, Professor Herbert H. Coulson, A.M., associate professor in the history department of St. Louis University, will address the assembly. His lecture will probably be "Erasmus".

Mr. Coulson, an alumnus of Cambridge University, is instructor in English History at Fontbonne. The subject of his last lecture delivered last semester was "The New Conservatism".

Seniors Receive Invitation For Alumnae Annual Ball

The annual formal ball of the Fontbonne College Alumnae will be held Friday evening, February 22, at the Gatesworth Hotel, Union and Lindell Blvd. This important announcement was contained in an invitation sent to Leontone Meyer, president of the senior class, by Mrs. J. Donald Gunn, president of the alumnae.

The ball, which has always been an outstanding item on the Fontbonne social calendar, will mark the gathering of the present student body with the classes of former years. The alumnae at this affair entertains the present senior class, and welcomes them as future members of their organization.

Although the seniors are to be the guests of honor, the invitation is extended to all the other classes of the college and also to former students. Dancing will begin at 9:30 p. m. to the music of Ray Dutchek's orchestra.

Tickets may be procured from the chairman of the ticket committee, Miss Mary Aloysia Knapp, or from any of the members of the committee, Mrs. George Eskers, Miss Bernice Sommer, or from Miss Lorene Kavanaugh.

Love, etc.

If a vote were taken, St. Valentine would undoubtedly prove to be the most popular saint of the Christian calendar. This follows naturally from man's great preoccupation with love. That he is preoccupied with love may be proved by an honest reply to the following question. During the years of a boy's college education, to what portion of the human race does he pay most attention? You know the answer.

Consider the evolution of the college boy's attitude toward girls. As a freshman, he suffers from a chivalric hangover. During this time, any long-haired girl with dreamy eyes can make him feel big and strong. Something cataclysmic happens during the summer, because the sophomore slant is quite the reverse. He looks down on the girls from afar and is fond of saying, "A woman is a woman, but a cigar is a good smoke". So fond is he of this state of mind that he hopes to make it permanent. A small blonde arriving at the psychological moment can easily induce a change of heart. This, sometime in the course of his junior year, develops into a Bitter Experience and he definitely announces that he is "through with women". As a senior he approaches normalcy and can actually go with several girls without becoming unduly upset.

In view of this state of flux of the masculine mind, it is remarkable how deftly and calmly the superlative sex handles affaires d'amour. To quote a modern commentator, "It takes an expert".

Are You Guilty?

Apparently some of our students have conceived queer notions concerning attendance at meetings of the various school organizations. For instance, every Catholic student in the school is entitled to membership in the Sodality, but the Sodality can boast only a few loyal members if one is to judge from the number that attend the weekly meetings. If the present attendance were to be tripled the majority of the students would still be unaccounted for.

We ask you as a lax sodalist to examine yourself on the following points. Is it that you do not attend Sodality meetings because you begrudge the time? Or do you not know when and where the meetings are held? Perhaps (banish the thought!!!!!!) you are unwilling to postpone the lunch rush to your food without delay. Some one else may foolishly suppose that she is not wanted and will be intruding. Then there is the student who just can't be bothered about attending a meeting—the student with a complete lack of school spirit. We advise you to steer clear of her influence.

Realize what an immense privilege it is to be a child of Mary. Win her approval—be among those present at the next meeting. One room has been sufficient for the sodalists up until now. What a triumph for Our Lady if we can make it necessary to throw open the doors!!!

Non-Fiction Division Of Library Enlarged By Five Late Books

Before the second semester officially opened the library acquired the following new non-fiction books:

The Life of George Washington, John Marshall. This is one of the most outstanding autobiographies of today.

"The life of the greatest American, written by the greatest American jurist, cannot, and will not, fail to attract the attention throughout the United States of thoughtful men and women, who will find it a mine of interesting facts and suggestions on the early administration of the Government"—Henry St. George Tucker.

The World Court, Manley O. Hudson. This is a handbook of the Permanent Court of International Justice. The author tells in a clear, impartial fashion the story of the World Court's work from 1921 to the beginning of 1934.

The Unknown God, Alfred Noyes.

This autobiography is a psychological approach to the Catholic Church. The author, a recent convert to Catholicism, is a prominent English essayist and poet.

Chapters in Frontier History, Gilbert J. Garraghan, S.J., Ph.D.

This book deals with two groups of pioneers, those of the French Colonial period, and those of the Indian Missionaries in the early American West. It contains the glamour and adventure that is intimately bound up with the story of French pioneering in Western America.

The social secretary, Miss Ruth Mary Higgins, wishes to acknowledge her appreciation for the cooperation of the Sisters and students in making the first openhouse such a splendid success.

The next openhouse is scheduled for the time immediately after Easter and others will probably follow at regular intervals.

Side Glances At The Grads

Fontbonne received an invitation for the marriage of Miss Emily Stephans, A.B., '31, and Cletus Shelby. The wedding took place yesterday at the Church of the Holy Cross, Baden, Mo.

Miss Mary Winifred Fleming, A.B., '31, and Cletus J. Heitzig were married on February 2, in Jerseyville, Illinois. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of St. Francis Xavier Church, the Reverend John J. Clancy. Mr. and Mrs. Heitzig will continue to live in Jerseyville.

On January 26, Miss Lilah Watson, '34, became the bride of Dr. Leo W. Huppert of Washington, Mo. The marriage was celebrated at a Solemn High Mass at the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel by the Reverend Joseph W. Watson, uncle of Mrs. Huppert. The bride's attendant was her sister, Miss Margaret Watson, A.B., '31. William J. Perkinson attended Dr. Huppert. Dr. and Mrs. Huppert are now residing in Okmulgee, Okla.

On January 15, a baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Spearing at St. Mary's Hospital. Mrs. Spearing was formerly Miss Romona Malloy, a member of the junior class in '33. The child was named Romona for her mother.

THE ATTTLER ALKS.....

Not so long ago, the Tattler wondered what would happen when a Southern drawl mingled with a Puerto Rican accent. We know since the debate that this combination is strong enough to shake even Irish blarney.

If all the hamburgers eaten by Fontbonnites were laid end to end (it seems fashionable to lay things that way), they would probably bark. Who says college girls are not broadminded?

What prompted Virginia O'Hearn's suggestion of thermometers as prom souvenirs for the boys? Here's hoping the local flames will rise to the occasion.

Have you or your friends said anything funny or outstanding lately? Don't keep it a secret. Tell the Tattler or write it on the board in 419. It is our earnest desire to encourage the budding wits around the school. And we don't do things by halves. If your bit of repartee is published you will receive the usual remuneration. (Ask any Font Reporter).

Elizabeth Schenk in one of her brighter moments twittered this bit of philosophy: "He who laughs last must be an Englishman."

Can you beat that? Well, try!

One evening last week, Marjorie Crooks (freshman, of course), a bit wearier than usual, retired at about 8 o'clock. Imagine the consternation caused when, with the ringing of the last bell (10:15 p. m.) she dashed down the corridor armed with washcloth and toothbrush ready to begin another day.

Six little freshmen were held prisoners in the library one noon hour. Frightened and hungry, they peered from behind the locked doors, until they were finally released by "Warden" Winnie Gidley. The moral to this story is: Books may furnish food for thought, but they're absolutely useless to an empty stomach.

Dear R. P. (meaning you, the Reading Public):

You'll never guess it, but a romance has culminated in our midst. Jake, the Belleville butter and egg man, and Anne, the Apple Girl, have taken the fatal step.

No longer will our little country girl friend belong in the state of blessed singleness. The state of Illinois now claims her as its own. ("No, Annie doesn't live here anymore!")

Her telegram came just in time to convey the news to the friends of the Font. Here's what it said:

We were jest married. Everything's Jake. Annie.

Well, apples were losing their appeal, and couldn't hold a candle to Jake's egg business, so Anne scrambled from our midst. Here's wishing her a Font "Au revoir" and lots of luck.

The Tattler.

As the Font goes to press, an announcement comes to the senior class from the conclave committee of St. Louis University that elections for Fontbonne's maid of honor to the 1935 Conclave Prom will be held Thursday, February 21. Seniors only are eligible to vote for the college Prom maid who must be a junior.

Rings and Bids Ceremony Part of Today's Program

Today at 3 o'clock in the Ryan Hall den, a double presentation ceremony will take place, that of senior rings and Prom bids. The order of events will be: Mother M. Palma, president of Fontbonne, address; Sister Joseph Aloysius, dean of the college, presentation of rings; Marie Pfeifle, junior class president, presentation of Prom bids; ten freshmen, spring fashion show; freshman hostesses, informal tea.

Committee chairmen are K. Higgins, E. Harrison, M. Roskopf, and M. J. Rutlino.

College Urges Mo. Senators To Support Mexican Bill

In reply to a request made by Sacred Heart College, Manhattanville, N. Y., Fontbonne cooperated by sending telegrams to the respective senators from Missouri, the Honorable Bennett Champ Clark and Harry S. Truman. This appeal from the New York college was nationwide; it urged the Catholic colleges and high schools to wire their respective senators asking their support of the bill of Senator William E. Borah of Idaho for investigation of the Mexican situation.

The following sent telegrams to the Missouri representatives in the United States Senate. They were: Fontbonne College, Fontbonne Student Association, Sodality, Glee Club, Sigma Beta Mu, Press Club, Alumnae Association, and St. Joseph's Academy Literary Club.

Ann O'Connell Reads Paper On Horace At Club Meeting

At the meeting of the Classical Club of St. Louis University, last Sunday afternoon at Fontbonne, Ann O'Connell, sophomore, read a paper on "The Study of the Meters in Horace's Odes". William A. Durbin, freshman at St. Louis University, read a paper on "The Import of the Six Roman Odes". Discussion of these papers was led by students from Maryville College.

Webster College gave a presentation on "Readings from Horace's Works Illustrating the Author in Friendship and Society". The following girls participated: Catherine Felice Day, Ann Carroll, and Elizabeth Jane O'Donnell.

State Academy Of Science Pays Honor To Phi Beta Chi

At the regular monthly meeting of Phi Beta Chi Tuesday evening formal announcement was made of the reception of the club as an active charter member of the Missouri Academy of Science. This organization was founded last fall at the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo. One of its first acts was officially to accept science clubs of institutions of higher education as active charter members.

After the announcement, the regular business of the meeting took place. Miss Helen Schulte, B.S., '32, president of the organization, discussed "The Mythological Background of the Circumpolar Constellations" and Miss Madeline Dawkins, B.S. in H.E., '30, spoke on "Silliman and the Beginnings of Chemistry at Yale". The hostesses for the evening were Miss Margaret Watson, B.S., '31, and Miss Ruth McDonald, B.S., '32.

The faculty, alumnae, and students of Fontbonne College extend their sympathy to Miss Eleanor Baer, A.B., '31, Fontbonne's librarian, in her recent bereavement, the death of her father, Oliver L. Baer.

Oblate Priest Lectures On Mission Field Of Southwest

"The Mexican Missions of the Southwest", was the subject of the address of the Reverend Cullen F. Deckert, O.M.I., at the assembly this week. Father Deckert, who is editor of Mary Immaculate, a monthly magazine written in English about the missions of Texas, New Mexico, and California, came to Fontbonne under the auspices of the college unit of the C. S. M. C.

The lecturer related some interesting accounts of the great work of the Oblate Missionaries of Mary Immaculate of which he is a member. Their deputation is caring for the practically abandoned missions. In this country they have establishments in Texas, California, Louisiana, and other states throughout the great Southwest.

"Texas," the speaker said, "has seventeen penal farms. Father Finnigan and I worked many years among the prisoners at these farms. Conversions of prisoners sentenced to the electric chair were very usual. It seems as though God gives these poor unfortunates special grace before the state takes their lives."

Father Deckert closed his lecture by asking members of the Press Club to contribute to the college department of the magazine, Mary Immaculate. "All types of literary compositions are acceptable, but discussions of questions on Catholic Action are desirable," concluded the speaker.

The prize for the winning story will be seventy-five dollars; fifty dollars will be second prize, and twenty-five dollars, third prize. Stories which do not merit one of the three prizes but which are accepted for publication in the magazine will be paid one cent a word.

Rules of the contest state that the theme of the stories should be wholesome and optimistic. Manuscripts should be typed, preferably.

Milton McGovern Reads Own Play As Guest Lecturer

The Literary Guild enjoyed the experience of hearing a playwright read his own work at their February meeting. Milton McGovern, A.M., instructor in English and dramatic art at St. Louis University, gave a reading of his one-act play, "Eleana and Dario". Seventeenth-century Italy is the locale of this story of sublimated and idealistic love. The actual production of the play involves the use of effective color contrasts and stress of rhythmic passages.

Mr. McGovern ably portrayed the characters of the young lovers, a little child, an old woman, a monk, and the captain of the guards. He displayed great versatility, in the swift change of tone and interpretation necessary in a reading of this kind.

The story centers around Dario and Eleana, Dario, infected by the plague, breaks the quarantine in the city of Florence, thus braving the penalty of instant death to see Eleana. When his presence is discovered, the sentence of death is passed upon him; Eleana chooses to die with him, and together they walk to the edge of a steep ravine and plunge towards certain death. Mr. McGovern produced the play in Detroit with the effective use of colorful costumes and incidental music.

Members of the faculty were present at this meeting. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Misses Eleanor Reynolds, A.B., '31, and Lucille McDonald, A.B., '31.
