Theologian Addresses Students At Assembly

The Reverend Gerald Ellard, S.J., Ph.D., professor in the school of theology of St. Louis University at St. Mary's, Kansas, will speak at the student assembly, Monday, April 1. Father Ellard will discuss "The Catholic Worker", a recent addition to the Catholic press.

This comparatively new periodical is edited by Dorothy Day, former Communist party leader and convert to Catholicism, and Dorothy Weston. It is principally a Catholic paper devoted to the cause of the workingman and the unemployed.

The "Catholic Worker" is developing a practical, Catholic social policy. Using the propagation of Christian doctrines it is combating destructive falsities of Communism. It is endeavoring to help the dreary, down-trodden laborer who formerly believed that his only salvation lay in Communism. The magazine shows this worker that the Catholic Church has beneficial truths and teachings on labor questions; that it can offer solutions above and beyond the philosophy of Communism.

The consensus of opinion in scholastic and religious circles concerning this periodical favors the work being accomplished. It is doing more in the field of Catholic action than any other single agent of the Church in this country. Its circulation today is over 60,000.

Fathers' Club at Fontbonne Names Date for Minstrel

The Fontbonne Fathers' Club has set Wednesday and Sunday evenings, May 8 and 12, as the date for its Minstrel Show. Both performances will be given in the Fontbonne Little Theatre at 8:30 p. m. Tickets will be fifty cents.

Dr. Patrick W. Gainer, director of the St. Louis University Glee Club and assistant professor in the English department at the University, is directing the show. Over twenty members of the Fathers' Club are included in the cast for the Minstrel.

The president of the Fathers' Club, Joseph A. McCarthy, and Mark Donley with the other officers of the organization, Edward Coff, vice-president, Robert Lyons, secretary, and Henry Schenk, treasurer, constitute the executive committee for the general arrangements.

Two Fontbonne Students Are Received As Members of Congregation of St. Joseph Sisters

Jane Murray, of Last Year's Sophomore Class, Is Now Sister Mary Jane. Frances Posie Broughton, Freshman, '34, Becomes Sister Mary Wilma.

Frances Posie Broughton who is now Sister Mary Wilma, C.S.J.

Two Fontbonne students of last year were admitted into the novitiate of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, Tuesday, March 19, St. Joseph's Day, when Jane Murray was received as Sister Mary Jane, and Frances Posie Broughton was received as Sister Mary Wilma. Sister Mary Jane was a member of last year's sophomore class; Sister Mary Wilma, one of last year's resident freshmen.

Marie Harder, a St. Joseph's Academy alumna, and sister of

Officiating at the services which were held in Holy Family Chapel, Carondelet, was His Excellency, the Most Reverend John J. Glennon, S.T.D., Archbishop of St. Louis, Mo. His Excellency was assisted by ninety priests of the city and vicinity, among whom were the Right Reverend P. P. Crane, V.G., Proton. Apos., and the Reverend John J. Taugher, C.M., S.T.L., chaplain at Fontbonne.

Sister Mary Jane is the daughter of Mrs. William M. Murray of 2646 Keokuk street, St. Louis. At Fontbonne she was an active member of the Press Club, Glee Club, and Sodality.

Sister Mary Wilma is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Broughton of Emden, Missouri. During her year at Fontbonne she was treasurer of the Press Club, and was an active member of the Sodality and the Athletic Association.

Jane Murray who is now Sister Mary Jane, C.S.J.

Cast for Annual Play, "Little Women", Given By Dramatic Director

Eileen Kelly and Helene Keaney To Portray Jo and Laurie. Sally Gartner is Amy.

The dramatic art department has actively started work on the much loved and widely read play, "Little Women", adapted from Louisa May Alcott's famous story of the same name.

The performance is scheduled to take place, Friday evening, May 3, at 8:30 o'clock, and also on Saturday afternoon, May 4, at 3 o'clock. Tickets will be fifty cents each.

Jo, that ever lovable and buoyant personality, is to be played by Eileen Kelly, sophomore. Helene Keaney, freshman, will portray the sensitive yet strong character of Laurie, the boy who lived next door. Amy, with her little airs, vanities and aspirations will be seen in the person of Sally Gartner of the junior class. Rita Buechler, sophomore, will lend all her talents to the interpretation of the sympathetic Beth. Meg, the oldest of the four

Much-Feted Seniors Will Be Mothers' Club Guests

Despite the horrors of theses, practice teaching, and midsemester examinations, being a senior does have its compensations. Until the opening of Lent the class had been widely feted by the various organizations of the school, and a busy program is planned for it before commencement. The most recent invitation received by the class has come from the Fontbonne Mothers' Club. Through the president of the organization, Mrs. W. Engelbreit, an invitation has been extended for a bridge luncheon to be given at one of the country clubs during the latter part of May. A more definite date will be set at the next regular business meeting of the club.

The freshman class entertained the seniors February 15 with a Valentine tea on the occasion of the formal presentation of rings and pins by Mother M. Palma, president of Fontbonne, and Sister Joseph Aloysius, dean of the College. The alumnae sponsored a formal ball at the Gatesworth Hotel on February 22, and a week later, the juniors closed the pre-lenten season by honoring the graduates at the annual Promenade amid much pomp and splendor.

Series of Four Lectures Under Auspices of I.F.C.A.

Fontbonne College Alumnae was represented by its president Mrs. Donald J. Gunn, at a meeting of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae held last week at the Kingsway Hotel. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss plans for the symposium on Catholic marriage to be held under the auspices of this organization at the Melbourne Hotel on March 27, April 1, April 8, and April 15 at 8:15 p. m.

The speakers for these lectures will be the following professors of St. Louis University: the Reverend Charles A. Robinson, S.J., A.M., of the school of arts and sciences; the Reverend Emmett Thomas Reynolds, S.J., Ph.D., of the school of medicine; the Reverend Raphael C. McCarthy, S.J., Ph.D., professor of psychology; the Reverend Francis J. O'Hern, S.J., A.M., spiritual adviser to students.

Press Club Selects May 11 As Date for Annual Bridge

Fontbonne College Press Club will sponsor a bridge to be given Saturday, May 11, at Fontbonne. Dorothy Farrell, freshman, has been appointed general chairman. Jane McLaughlin, sophomore, is head of the prize committee. She will be assisted by Kathryn Mercurio, sophomore, and Kay Higgins, freshman. Hortense Sandweg, sophomore, is chairman of the cards, tickets, and tallies committee. Other members of that group are Ruth Mosberger, Virginia Lee Flaherty, Tattie Olivieri, and Eloise Laumann, sophomores. Helen Mark, junior, is in charge of cake and candy. Estelle McCarthy, junior, and Marguerite Roduit and Jane O'Connell, freshmen, are members of the committee.

This bridge is an annual feature of the Press Club. Tickets will sell for thirty-five cents apiece. The money received from this function will be used to defray expenses of the 1935 Font.

Attendance at Basketball Tournament is Urged

The first elimination game for the basketball tournament showed a deplorable lack of enthusiasm on the part of the student body. And yet many students ask why Fontbonne does not engage in inter-collegiate games. This seems strange, in view of the fact so few students show interest in games played between the classes.

What is the reason for this passive attitude toward basketball? Formerly it meant a great deal to be on one of the teams to play in the tournament. Surely school spirit should prompt continued attention to these games.

Riding and swimming have become very popular, it is true. However, each sport attracts its own devotees, and the college is large enough to assure interest in all of them.

Now is the time to remedy this situation. The tournament begins on April 2, and each student should feel it her duty to attend and cheer for her friends and classmates. Only the cream of the crop will be represented on the competing teams, and so plenty of excitement is promised.

Rome to Canonize Sir Thomas More

The great English counsellor and jurist of the sixteenth century, Blessed Thomas More, is to become Saint Thomas. This news from the Vatican should be of special interest to history and literature students who have studied about Sir Thomas More as a Lord Chancellor of England during the reign of King Henry VIII and also as the author of Utopia.

It will be remembered that Sir Thomas More was beheaded July 6, 1535, by Henry VIII because he refused to recognize the legality of the divorce of the king from Catherine of Aragon, and also the English ruler's subsequent marriage to Anne Boleyn. Naturally, Henry resented a subject whose opinion was counter to his, and forthwith sent out a decree demanding More's death.

It has been said that Sir Thomas faced death as he had faced life, "connecting with it nothing new, forced or affected." This great churchman and statesman died with a fixed and settled hope of immortality truly in keeping with the beautiful words of the Scriptural passage: "For unto thy faithful, O Lord, life is changed, not taken away; and the abode of this earthly sojourn being dissolved, an eternal dwelling is prepared in heaven".

To the Editor of the Font:

Some time ago an editorial appeared in this newspaper concerning the attendance at Sodality meetings. I would like to say that the time of the meeting of that organization is not agreeable to many students. This would account, in some measure for the poor attendance. For example, at eleven-thirty a. m. on Friday, the time scheduled for the meeting of that club, there are three classes in session: journalism, mathematics, and education.

As long as the Sodality is one of the most important organizations in the school, it should be possible that one assembly period a month at least be devoted to it. It seems to me that this one spirited meeting would be of much more interest and benefit than four poorly-attended ones. Why not try this out, just to see how many students are really "Sodality conscious"? I believe that if an interesting meeting is planned at this convenient time, the assembly period, that the Sodality will become a much more thriving organization.

—Interested Sodalist.

(Editor's Note: This suggestion is well worth consideration by the Student Association and Sodality. Perhaps they could arrive at some arrangements satisfactory and beneficial to both organizations. The time element may not be the only disturbing factor regarding Sodality attendance, but it is obviously an important one.)

The staff of the Font extends its hearty good wishes and congratulations to Sister M. Callista and Sister Catherine de Ricci, members of the faculty of Fontbonne College, on the occasion of their silver jubilee as members of the Congregation of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet. The observance of their twenty-fifth anniversary was fittingly celebrated Tuesday, St. Joseph's Day, at Fontbonne.

THE ATTLE ALKS.....

The Tattler caught Leontone Meyer, president of the senior class, in this informal pose one day last week. Her mathematical inclinations led her to measure the exact space occupied by an ivy root.

Baby Higgins, (Flora Mary, to you), three weeks young today, paid a special visit to Fontbonne last Sunday. She was accompanied by her big sisters, Ruth and Kay.

Good till the last drop.

The course in Meal Planning and Serving is an extremely practical one. The first thing Miss Carmody teaches her students is to count the silver after the guests have departed. Drop that knife, villain!

That brave personage, the unknown poet, like the famous unknown soldier (and, might we add, just as dead) has bombarded the Press Room with this, her latest brain-child:

Id the sprig
The beautyfull sprig

Is ad awful thig.

Behind Locker Doors: A Mystery Story

Lockers at Fontbonne make the proverbial "Model T" Fords bow their engine heads in shame when their unlimited capacity is disclosed. Many an aspiring magician could certainly find no better models for imitation than the blossoming Houdinis who swell the sides of their little, green, tin compartments with numerous articles ranging from a bag of peanuts to three roller-skate wheels.

In one representative locker, which by the way, measures approximately five feet high, sixteen inches wide, and one foot deep, the following articles were discovered: a coat and hat, cap and gown, five text books (necessary evils), a box of pins, three yearbooks, four old magazines, two sorority chance books, a piece of chalk, three old gloves, five initiation hats, a ruler, a cookbook, an apron, a clothes brush, a linoleum block, a deck of cards, and a percolator top.

The second locker proved to be a real revelation; it is a perfect manifestation of the college girl's ability to cram. Its extra little bulge in front denoted that it had two owners, instead of one. When the door was finally pried open, these objects gushed out to envelop the innocent bystander: two coats, two hats, two caps and gowns, two swimming suits, two towels, a bar of soap, one pair of ballet slippers and tennis shoes, several rulers, innumerable school books, an old white hat, and an encyclopedia.

A silent drama was unfolded in one locker where a knife was found alongside of "The Science of Life".

In lockers selected at random the following items, in our estimation, are worthy of publication: two paper drinking cups, crepe paper, a roll of magazines from Australia, two bids to the Prom, knitting, three china cats, sunglasses, umbrellas, a suitcase, a pair of scissors, two broken dolls, a kite tail, a bottle of cough syrup, nail polish, a Parkmoor check, (20c on somebody's conscience), riding boots, a red feather, house plans, a jar of grape jelly, a half-dozen oranges, and a towel from the Statler.

Mirrors were protruding from about every eighth door in "locker row", but the owners in most cases had locked their precious possessions in. This little act caused many an exclamation of anger on the part of the "would-be vain".

It was the sight of so many coats outside the lockers that prompted this investigation. We are now convinced that the reason is that there is no room for them inside. In addition, we are satisfied that this little lesson in relativity of matter to space would cause even Einstein to sing, "I Believe in Miracles".

Ninth Crusade Convention To Be Held in Dubuque, Iowa

The official announcement concerning the Ninth National Convention of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade has recently been received by Anna Muschong, Fontbonne junior and president of the college unit. At the invitation of His Excellency, the Most Reverend Francis J. Beckman, S.T.D., Archbishop of Dubuque, Iowa, the convention this year will be held in that city from August 6 to 9. Clarke and Columbia Colleges will be the hosts.

This conference will bring together an assemblage of figures notable in the missionary world. A number of Bishops from the ranks of the American Hierarchy will attend as guests.

Applications for registration should be sent to the crusade Castle, Cincinnati, Ohio. The convention fee, including registration and board and lodging for four days of the meeting, is twelve dollars and fifty cents. Students desiring further information are asked to see Anna Muschong, or any of the other officers of the local unit, Dorothy Coleman, vice-president, or Kathryn Mercurio, secretary-treasurer.

Students Hear Literature And Journalism Discussed

Within the past week two guest speakers addressed the faculty and students of the college. Reverend Francis J. Yealy, S.J., Ph.D., (Cantab.) spoke at the student assembly, Monday, on "Wordsworth and the Lake Country"; Robert Cadle, A.B., of the staff of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, addressed the Press Club, Wednesday, on "Phases in Journalism".

Father Yealy, who is associate professor in the English department of St. Louis University, illustrated his lecture with slides showing Cockermouth, Nether, Stowey, Alfoxen, Rydal Mount, Lakes Grasmere and Windermere, and the River Wye.

"The picturesque Lake country of northern England has special charms for the lover of English literature, not only because of the simple grandeur of its hills and lakes, but also because of the literary friendships fostered there," the lecturer said. "Wordsworth, preeminently the romantic poet of nature, developed in this peaceful region of Westmoreland and Cumberland, that serenity of spirit and calm poise of mind which were his chief contributions to the poetry of his age."

At the Press Club meeting, Mr. Cadle discussed the newspaper as an institution, its function, organization, and makeup. The lecturer concluded his talk by saying, "Often an event, idea, or activity seems, at first glance, to possess little that is interesting and significant but, examined more closely it reveals some phase or some connection that is of considerable news value."

Class in Nutrition To Hear Dr. L. Padberg, Pediatrician

Dr. Louis Padberg, M.D., will address the class in dietetics and nutrition, next Wednesday, April 3, at 3:30 p. m. in Room 301, Ryan Hall. The lecturer, an eminent pediatrician, will discuss nutrition of the child of preschool age.

Dr. Padberg is a graduate of the Medical School of St. Louis University; he has done extensive research work in Berlin and Vienna. At present Dr. Padberg is a member of the staff of St. Anthony's Hospital of this city.

Braille Class Participates In Exposition for Blind

Clare Harder, Melba Durbin, and Betty Hoffman, members of the Braille Transcribing class at Fontbonne, will take part in the program for the Fourth St. Louis Educational Week for the Blind, April 20 to May 4, at the Municipal Auditorium. These students will be stationed in the Transcribers' Booth at the Exposition on Tuesday of that week. This day, April 30, will be known as "Catholic Day".

On the other days of the week, various religious denominations will participate in demonstrating the accomplishments of the blind, such as broom-making, hemming, and typing. Tea will be served to all guests in the Auditorium Tea Room.

Miss Adaline A. Ruenzi, of the Missouri Commission for the Blind, and instructor in Braille at Fontbonne, and her Cultural and Service Club, will exhibit a "talking-book", which shows the process by which the blind play bridge, pinochle, anagrams, and other games. The club, organized a year ago, has endeavored to supply the need of intellectual and recreational interests for the blind. It provides means for education by lectures, debates, and book reviews; for entertainment, by cards, games, and physical culture.

Miss Kathleen Scott, A.M., head of the dramatic art department, is directing the production with the aid of a student stage management crew. This crew will transform the Little Theatre into the charming and delightful atmosphere of the March New England home.

Freshman Religion Classes Hold Debates During Week

Two interesting and lively debates took place during the week in the freshman religion classes under the direction of Sister M. Alfred, instructor. The subject of the debate was: Resolved that non-Catholics are ignorant of the Catholic Church rather than opposed to it.

In the first debate Tuesday afternoon, in Room 303 Ryan Hall, Jane O'Connell and June Thornton, negative, won from Mary Catherine Amend and Helene Keaney; Belya Dobyns presided. The judges were Miss Elcanora Baer, librarian, Catherine Scullin, prefect of the Sodality, and Vera Stueber, president of the Press Club.

The negative side composed of Dorothy Farrell and Mary Jane Tyler won from the affirmative, Marguerite Roduit and Mary Jo Rutino Wednesday. Mary Lou Sackbauer was the chairman of this session. Sister M. Adeline of the French department, Sister Margaret John of the English department, and Virginia O'Hearn, editor of the Font, were the judges.

The winners of both debates will hold a final debate sometime in the early part of April.

At the final lecture on April 15, the chairman for the evening will be Miss Catharine A. Gunn, A.B., former president of the Fontbonne College Alumnae Association.

Delta Phi, the art club, held its bi-monthly meeting, Tuesday evening, March 26, at 8 o'clock, in the art studio. It was decided at the last business meeting of the organization that topics on modern artists would be discussed at one of the two meetings during the month. The other meeting would be given over to personal art work.

Mary Jo Rutino, chairman of the meeting, arranged a program of talks on "Illustrative Art of Some Modern Illustrators." Sally Gartner spoke on Edmundson, illustrator for Harper's Magazine. Rosemary Michelson discussed Eric, who is on the art staff of Vogue. Elizabeth Alexander's paper contained information about Martin, who has contributed to both magazines, Harper's and Vogue. Discussion followed the reading of each paper.

At its next meeting, Tuesday evening, April 9, Sigma Beta Mu will make a study of the Symphony Orchestra.

The program will be as follows: History of the Orchestra, Eileen Irvine The Strings, Theresa Burmeister Demonstration of the Strings:

Grads Begin Taking the Jumps

An alumnae riding club for members of the alumnae of both Fontbonne College and St. Joseph's Academy has recently been organized by Miss Marie Hanss, B.S., director of the Fontbonne physical education department. At present twenty-three alumnae have been listed; membership, however, is still open.

Members of the club will be placed in a riding class with Paul Flynn as instructor. The second class meeting was held last Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Missouri Stables Arena, 5200 Berthold avenue.

A complete schedule for classes has not been assigned as yet because of the incomplete list of members. The price of a lesson is one dollar per hour.

Those alumnae who are interested either in learning to ride, or in practicing for the Fontbonne Second Spring Horse Show to be given April 26 and 27, are requested to communicate with Miss Hanss, at her home, COlifax 5448, or at Fontbonne, CABany 8197.

Plans are now being made by the club for a moonlight ride followed by supper in Forest Park sometime in the near future.

The following alumnae have enrolled: Misses Madeline Dawkins, Eileen Barnes, Catharine Gunn, Louise Murray, Florence Noble, Catherine Tackaberry, Cecil Hoerr, Marie Balsamo, Mildred Gilmore, Bernice Sommer, Ruth Mary Higgins, Jane Finney, Helen Heath, and Lenadore Bass from the college. Misses Virginia Maxwell, Virginia Walters, Mercedes Lyons, Gladys Hales, Anna Coan, Mary Catherine Forrestal, Virginia Purdy, and Gladys Kletzker are alumnae from St. Joseph's Academy.

Score at End of Quarter?

The annual basketball tournament for the Fathers' Club trophy will be played Tuesday, April 2, at 7:45 p. m., by the seniors and freshmen, and by the juniors and sophomores.

Last Thursday evening the preliminaries were played. Maryrose Kehoe, freshman captain, led her team to victory over the rival sophomores with a score of 35-13. Hortense Sandweg was the second year leader.

The next game was played between the seniors and juniors. Co-captains Ita McCauley and Alma Tackaberry and their senior team won the game, 38-15, from the junior squad captained by Laura Lorenz.

Academy Observes Patronal Feast and Vocation Week

Miss Stella R. Gillick, one of the organizers of St. Joseph's Alumnae Association, for many years its president, and former Governor of the Missouri Chapter, I. F. C. A., addressed the academy students on the various industrial and professional fields open to young women at the present day. Miss Gillick's talk was followed by the presentation of a skit, "Life's Gift Shop", in which the character, "Life" was Catherine Disch, and that of "She", a present day girl of graduating age, Helen Crean.

This lecture concluded the vocation week program observed by the Sodality of St. Joseph's Academy from March 18-24. A special prayer for vocations was recited each day, and on March 19, the feast of St. Joseph, the patron of the academy, a general Holy Communion was offered. Throughout the month of March special devotions to St. Joseph are conducted each day during the assembly period.

On Monday, March 18, the program was dedicated to St. Joseph. Following the singing of "Gentle St. Joseph", talks were given on St. Joseph, the patron of the religious life, by Elizabeth Hegger and Mary Ellen Bub; of family life, by Mary Virginia Nolan and Virginia Murphy; of vocations, by Audrey Wild and Rosemary Murphy; and of the S. J. A. student, by Virginia Melican and Evelyn Hannefin.

Council Declares Uniforms Not Compulsory After Today

At the last meeting of the Student Council, Tuesday, March 26, two important measures were considered. The first concerned the college uniform. The council decreed that after today, Friday, March 29, uniforms need not be worn.

The second project was the passing of the proposed amendment to the Association which changed the name from "College Association" to "Student Association". The latter title has been used for the last seven years, but an editorial in the Font prompted the association legally to change the name.

At the next meeting of the council, there will be a definite date set for the election of officers of the Student Association for the scholastic year, 1935-36.

religion in St. Joseph's Academy, addressed the students on the need of religion in every vocation in life. Father Taugher's address was followed by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Thursday, Mother M. Palma, president of Fontbonne College and former directress of St. Joseph's Academy, spoke on the necessity of education in every vocation, and especially in the life of a religious.

The Sodality officers who sponsored the Vocation Week program are: Elizabeth Hegger, prefect; Virginia Melican, vice-prefect; Eileen Reilly, secretary; Rosemary Walsh, treasurer.
