Annual Horse Show Opens Tonight

28 Students Pack Bags For Florida and Cuba

Will Leave April 21; Classes Resumed 8:30 A. M., May 1

The Fontbonne Annual Spring Tour will take place, April 21, when 28 students will depart from Union Station on the "Dixie Flyer" at 10:50 p. m. for a delightful trip to Havana, Cuba.

The following girls are going on the trip: Tookie Allen, Dorothy Barada, Dorothy Baumstark, Margaret Bussmann, Helen Cahill, Dorothy Ann Casey, Helen Dillon, Helen Guyol, Mary Ann Killion, Mary Teresa Klecan, Betty Ann LaBarge, Ann Elizabeth Mapel, Margaret Miller, Grace Jane Milton, Audrey Naumann, Lucille O'Connell, Gloria Pandjiris, Catherine Pendergast, Dorothy Sackbauer, Alice Lee Sawyers, Mary Ellen Sullivan, Anne Swanger, Mary Tracy, Josephine Tlappek, Rose Tlappek, Rosemary Ward, Mary Rita Wahlert, and Dorothy Ziegler.

The tour includes visits to St. Augustine, Fla., where they will see the oldest house in America, and Fort Marion, Miami, to see such famous places as the Coconut Grove, Coral Gables, and the Seminole Indian Reservation, Palm Beach, St. Petersburg, Tampa, and Havana, Cuba.

The girls after this educational and profitable trip will arrive at Union Station on May 1, at 7:45 a. m.

Miss Theresa Carmody, faculty member, will chaperon the girls.

Kappa Gamma Pi Sponsors Annual Short Story Contest

The tenth annual Short Story Contest sponsored by the Connecticut chapter of Kappa Gamma Pi, national Catholic honor sorority, has been announced. The contest is open to all undergraduates of affiliated colleges.

Manuscripts are to be submitted in the regular form and are not to exceed 1,500 words. No names are to appear on the manuscript itself, which must be postmarked no later than midnight, April 30. Winners will be notified immediately, and prizes of twenty-five and ten dollars will be awarded to the first and second best short stories. After judging, steps will be taken by Kappa Gamma Pi to have the stories published.

Erhart and Noonan Merit Science Awards

Ryan, Pandjiris, Duggan, Schuh And LaBarge Ranking Students

Mary Sue Erhart, freshman in the biology department, and Grace Noonan, freshman in the chemistry department, have been selected by Phi Beta Chi as the outstanding freshmen students in science during the present scholastic year. Honorable mention was given in the chemistry department to Alice Ryan, Patricia Duggan, Louise LaBarge, Betty Schuh, and Gloria Pandjiris, listed according to their grades.

These students were chosen by the science organization for their scientific ability, evidenced by achievement and general interest in the particular field. Mary Sue Erhart and Grace Noonan will have their names engraved on bronze plates which will be attached to the plaque which hangs in the den in Ryan Hall.

Mary Sue Erhart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Erhart of Little Rock, Arkansas, and is a graduate of Mount Saint Mary's Academy. Grace Noonan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Noonan, 4118 San Francisco Avenue, is an alumna of Visitation Academy.

Honorable Mention

Alice Ryan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Ryan, 5932 Waterman Avenue. Patricia Duggan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome F. Duggan, 3841 Flora Place. Betty Schuh is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph

Outstanding Science Students

Mary Sue Erhart received the Phi Beta Chi award in biology.

Grace Noonan ranked highest in the field of chemistry.

17 College, 19 Academy Riders Participate; Youth and Age, Military Drill Are Feature Attractions

The eighth annual Fontbonne College Horse Show will open tonight at 8:00 p. m., at the Missouri Stables. Approximately seventy riders and nineteen events will be featured in two performances, tonight and Saturday night.

This year's show promises to be the most colorful since 1934 when Fontbonne College and St. Joseph's Academy presented the first horse show to be sponsored by a single institution for its students.

Kappa Gamma Pi Awards to Cejka, Baumstark, and Duggan

The members of the faculty voted Wednesday to award membership in Kappa Gamma Pi, national Catholic honor sorority, to Dorothy Baumstark, Alice Cejka, and Geraldine Duggan. The award is made annually on the basis of scholarship, leadership, loyalty, and character.

Dorothy Baumstark will graduate in June, Magna Cum Laude. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Baumstark of Atlanta, Georgia. A leader in campus life as well as scholastic rank, Dorothy will read a paper on "The Relation of Hormones to Growth" at the Science meeting in Columbia this week-end.

Leads Poetry Club

Alice Cejka is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Cejka of 5417 Rosa, St. Louis. She will receive her degree Magna Cum Laude in June. President of the Poetry Club, President of the C.S.M.C., leader in many fields, Alice is a familiar figure around the campus, accomplishing many things, quietly and efficiently.

Queen of the May

The May Queen, Geraldine Duggan, student of the classics, Prefect of the Sodality, piano virtuoso, will receive her degree Cum Laude. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Duggan, 4108 Connecticut, St. Louis.

Alice Voegeli, who evokes such harmonious melodies from the piano keys, will receive her degree in music, Magna Cum Laude.

Isabelle to Iowa State

Isabelle Mansour, dietician and President of the Home Economics Club, will be awarded her degree Cum Laude. Isabelle will take up where Kay Disch leaves off at Iowa State.

Congratulations from the student body to the honor graduates of '41!

More than forty trophies and 150 ribbons will be awarded in the various events. The usual drill class, equitation, pairs and games will be included on the program. Again the feature events will be the parent-daughter, sister-brother, and sister classes.

Novelty Events

Youth and age will be featured in the Horse Show this year when Mr. Thomas J. Skinner, Sr., 92 years old, will ride with Miss Betty Nelson, 4 years old. Mr. Skinner is the grandfather of Martha, Skinner of St. Joseph's Academy. Betty Nelson is the sister of Mary Margaret Nelson, Fontbonne College, '40. Those who attended last year's show will remember Betty's display of the equestrian art for which she received a special award. Other feature riders include Harry and Jack Hegeman, twin brothers of Miss Catherine Hegeman, one of the riders of St. Joseph's Academy, and cadets of Christian Brothers' College who will give an exhibition. Alumnae riders of both Fontbonne College and St. Joseph's Academy will ride in special events.

Games

Miss Belle Marie Mullins, head of the Dramatic and Speech department of Fontbonne College, will coach the opening drill of this year's show. Games for the various classes are as follows: Advanced class, obstacle race; novice class, package relay; beginners' class, snake relay; and alumnae

The Lucky One Is . . .

Ann Mapel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Mapel of 5714 Michigan Avenue, was the winner of the Press Club's annual Spring benefit, the proceeds of which will go to The Font. Ann's award was a fifty dollar gift certificate to any shop or department store that she might choose.

The Font joins the Press Club in thanking the entire student body for their effort in making this benefit a success.

FACULTY NOTES

Sister Susanne Marie and Sister Bertha are returning today from Chicago where they have been attending the American Association of College Registrars.

Sister Mary Plus will discuss the paper "Mind and the Social Sciences," to be given by Professor Cecil H. Miller, of the University of Missouri, at the science convention to be held in Columbia today and tomorrow. Other faculty members attending the convention are Sister Rose Agnes, Sister Catherine de Ricci, and Sister Marguerite.

On April 30, Mr. Alphonse Clemens will attend the National Catholic Family Life Convention at Mount Saint Mary's College in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. He will discuss "The Liturgy and the Family." "Collective Bargaining Under the New Deal (1933-41)" is the title of Mr. Clemens' dissertation which he has submitted for his Ph.D. degree in economics, sociology, and education.

Miss Willis is planning a trip to Washington, D. C., during spring vacation; Miss Mullins will visit her brothers in Shelbyville and Decatur, Illinois; Miss Carmody will chaperone the trip to Cuba; and Miss Fuehelen will attend sessions of the College Guidance Week to be held at St. Louis University April 23 to 26. As for Miss Horgan, she will spend her vacation seeing that year book copy gets to Kansas City on time.

Sister St. Luke, librarian, is now attending a convention of the Catholic Library Association, which is being held in connection with the National Catholic Education Association at the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans, Louisiana. Sister is presiding as the chairman of the Elementary Section.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Surprise! Surprise! This isn't going to be a list of grievances foreboding a revolution. But I'm all in the mood to throw a few posies to a deserving Font staff. It should be more than a few to those who have worn themselves to a frazzle over write-ups and stuff! All year long we've appreciated having the news of the school published in the Font—in such an informative and entertaining manner.

But after all your work, we need a campaign to get all the students to read all of the paper. Thanks to headlines, some of us continue to be slightly informed, but could you possibly devise some scheme by which students would come to appreciate the paper more fully? It's an angle that needs working on, but until that ideal situation is established, rest assured that here's one . . .

FAITHFUL FAN.

the swivel chair

● most lovely Mary!

Clothed in Purity's gown 'neath a mantle of blue, Mary was conceived. As a white dove to spread its protecting wings of peace over a disturbed world, as a mystical rose to gladden the sad hearts of man, as the Lamb of God to participate in the Redeeming Sacrifice, she came down on earth.

Such joy must have filled the hearts of earthly creatures when she came among them. The season clothed itself in Springtime to greet her! The heavens became more radiant, reflecting her purity in its gown of blue; the flowers bloomed forth to catch a glimpse of one more innocent than themselves.

How kind God was to part with her for even such a short time — she the most perfect creature molded of His handiwork. Just for us! To help us work out our salvation and serve as the model of goodness and holiness so that we, by imitating her might merit our eternal goal and meet face to face her Adorable Son.

● unfinished business!

June fourth is a fast approaching date, and is of much concern to the Fontbonne girls, especially the seniors. When that day comes, another scholastic year will have been completed, and the job of earnest delving into books of knowledge will be cast aside for the less mentally strained activities.

From now until then, there are still twenty-three actual school days, during which we must not entertain the slightest hint of an epidemic of spring fever. We owe it to ourselves to continue to the best of our ability in getting the most of our college education. It is our duty to our parents, who have faith and pride in us to make a good showing. We must consider ourselves in the future as responsible women upon whom others will rely for teaching and example, the perfection of which, we, as college girls, will receive at Fontbonne.

Let's really show those who are skeptical about the ability of our generation that we're made of the real thing, that we can stick to a job until it is completed. This job is the job of text book absorption.

● we'll learn too!

The advantages of traveling to supplement the actual academic education have long been acknowledged. When the opportunity of going abroad to see the people and the land about which we have heard or studied is presented, very often the pleasures overshadow the more valuable and lasting part of the trip.

This year a group of fortunate students will see the highlights of several southern states. They will travel by boat to Havana, Cuba, where the differences in food, climate, people, language, and customs present interesting angles for study. Nevertheless, there are always those who view such undertakings with alarm, with never an optimistic thought for the benefits that will come of it. Worry about safety, about baggage, about comfort, all these are incidental to travel of any sort. When a group of well-chaperoned young ladies set out to see the world, they are well-content to lose a little weight over the trivial problem of baggage or comfort.

We're anxious to talk with them when they return. We're anxious to hear them rave about the Cuban people they saw, about the queer dish they had, and about the foreign shops and the funny little man who sold them that exotic perfume. We'll all profit by the trip, for our friends will return with more to talk about than the latest movie. They'll spend long afternoons over the bridge table conversing with us about that Isle of Cuba . . . and we'll be waiting to hear all about it, too!

LET'S TALK IT OVER...

They're Off!

"In the spring a young girl's fancy turns to"—yes, we know, that thesis. Yet we can't blame that far away look in the eyes of many on term papers and such. Take Barbara Raupp, for instance. "Bubs" is no doubt day dreaming about that spring vacation in Hot Springs, Arkansas, where she will be the guest of "Nunie", her roommate. We envy her 'cause we've heard all about how the men are made rough and ready down that-a-way. Well, ready. And then there's Evelyn Hurley—ah, yes, Pittsburgh, Pa. is noted for something besides its coal. There's Carnegie Tech, for example, and we hear there's a Carnival in the air. How about it, Evelyn? (I wonder if that's what he'll say.)

College Humor

As for a bit of college wit (?) this tidbit may be attributed to Mary McKeon's (acute sense of humor. Quote: "A little bit of toupee was cryin' and cryin' and cryin'. But its mother said 'Don't cry, honey. You'll get ahead.'" Unquote, and shoot.

Isn't it a pity? April 21 promises to be a big night. St. Louis U's Spring Party (as if you didn't know) and the trip to Cuba. We hear that "Hank" Sabadell has promised to take care of Dick for Margaret Miller while the latter cuts capers with the Cubans. Don't treat him too good, Hank.

Double Feature!

The 13th is by no means an unlucky day for Gerry Duggan. May Day and her birthday—two happy events to make her a super-lovely queen.

Have you seen the pictures Betty Knetzer is exhibiting of her Kentucky Kutie? Pretty slick. We're all Little Abner fans ourselves.

Flash

Helen Dillon believes in traveling light. We tried to advise her that she wouldn't need a bed warmer, a fly swatter, a life saver, and two dozen lemons, but she wouldn't listen. She probably intends to bestow them as gifts on the Cuban lads.

M.P.H. used to mean miles per hour before Ann Sheridan.

Recently met a co-ed who wore shell rimmed glasses because she needed them.

F.D.R. doesn't know enough to come out of the reign.

1961 A.D.

It is quite quiet now, this early in the morning. A few brazen little birds are piping thinly.

Those old bricks? Yes, they were probably a building once. University buildings? Most probably. There's no one who quite remembers . . .

The quiet grey moss inches its way through the mortar and plans gradually to engulf the area. Nearby stands the shattered stump of an old fir tree. The atmosphere is eating its fibers.

Were there lots of buildings then? Were there lawns and roses in the sunshine? See, here is a bit of an old cement pathway. It crumbles if you step on it.

There is a certain softness about the day yet. The mists are lifting, the air is cooling to the cheek. But everywhere it is so quiet.

Were there many people here then? Didn't they laugh and talk to one another? Didn't they care about the lovely old buildings?

The water in the mill stream chortles as you slap it with a little stone. It is muddy green and flows passively on its way. It is used to being left alone. There are no boats floating on its back.

Why aren't there any boats? What happened to all the people and buildings? Why did they simply leave? Didn't they have any air raid shelters at all?

The sun is coming out now. Listen, the little birds are singing louder.

May Day Will Be Held May 13 in Campus Setting

Geraldine Duggan Chosen Queen By Student Body

Flowers, daisy chains, hymns to Our Lady, a procession, a living Rosary—all these things point to one big event on the College calendar, the Annual May Day. This year May 13 has been set as the date, and Geraldine Duggan, senior and Sodality Prefect, has been chosen by vote of the entire student body to be the Queen.

The event is being planned to include all the students in the school, by the innovation of a living rosary to be formed on the lawn with the letters "F.C." in the center. The ceremonies and crowning of the Queen will take place outdoors with a loud speaker system arranged so that all the speeches may be heard. Several former May Queens are also invited to participate. After the crowning of the Queen, the procession will move to the chapel where the Blessed Virgin will be crowned and Benediction given.

Maid to the Queen

Chosen from the classes to represent them as maids to the queen are the following girls: Mary Concannon and Alice Cejka, seniors; Rena Lumini and Arkie Lee Pratt, juniors; Marjorie Boeving and Helen Macaulay, sophomores; and Gloria Pandjiris and Peggy McCarthy, freshmen.

SPOTLIGHT

Dorothy Barada is one of those seniors the rest of us are wondering how we'll go to without. Next year we're going to miss her witty sayings and gay smile. Her personality and humor is enough to brighten any class, and yet you'll find that under all her light-heartedness she can be as sober and as capable as any faculty member. Which probably is a good thing because Dorothy is planning to teach after she graduates in June. She will have to her credit not only her teacher's certificate but also an A. B. in English.

It's difficult to list her abilities because they seem almost endless. To begin with, she graduated from St. Elizabeth's Academy and entered Fontbonne in her Freshman year. She joined various clubs and organizations, among which were Delta Phi, the Poetry Club, and the Press Club. Now, aside from being one of the most talented members of Delta Phi, she is Corresponding Secretary of the Poetry Club and Vice-President of the Press Club.

Last year Dorothy was given the honor of being elected President of the Junior Class, and with this came the worry and responsibility of the Senior Formal Banquet. However, her smile and ability led her successfully through her difficulties and now, as she looks back on her Junior year, she says that she wouldn't have missed it for anything, even if there are, as she insists, gray hairs hidden underneath her blond ones.

What we hope is that after we all become alumnae members we'll be seeing Dorothy and listening to her crazy chatter at many alumnae meetings.

Dean Names Fifty-seven for Mid-Semester Honor Roll

Blinzinger, Baumstark, Mansour, Sansone, Voegli, and Duggan Are Ranking Students

The mid-semester honor roll for Fontbonne College has just been released by Sister Marietta, Dean. There are fifty-seven students whose names appear on the list below. The seniors have the largest percentage of honor ranking students of all the classes. The students who rank the highest of the entire students are Dorothy Baumstark, senior; Anita Blinzinger, senior; Geraldine Duggan, senior; Isabelle Mansour, senior; Alice Voegli, senior; and Marie Sansone, junior.

DEAN'S HONOR ROLL

Survey Begun In '38 Reveals Increase In Number of Working Students

AUSTIN, Tex., April 18—Working while going to college is nothing new to the American collegian. But figures of a national study just completed reveal that there is actually a majority of college men who are today earning all or part of their expenses. Surprising also may be the fact that nearly 36 per cent of the co-eds perform some work to supplement their incomes from home or scholarships.

The significance of this research conducted by Student Opinion Surveys of America for The Font and other undergraduate newspapers that support this institution, lies not only in the statistics produced, but in the extensiveness of the survey itself. For nearly three years on hundreds of campuses interviewers have been asking students, "Do you work or pay all or part of your college expenses?"

Begun in 1938

The results are based on nearly 25,000 personal interviews begun in 1938, ended last month. Ten separate national samplings have been taken on this subject, each representing a carefully-derived cross section of the total enrolled.

More Men Work

There is a vast difference between the number who work for only part of their living costs and those who actually "work their way through." There are, of course, more men—one-seventh—able to support themselves entirely than there are women—onethirtieth. Here are the complete tabulations:

	Men	Women
All who work.....	56.8%	35.9%
All who don't work.....	43.2	64.1
Those who work to earn part of expenses.....	43.4	31.3
Those who work to earn all of expenses.....	13.4	4.6

Variety of Occupation

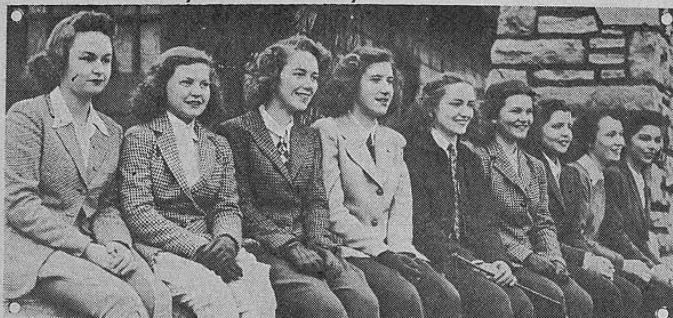

There are collegians who sweep halls of learning for their date money. Many wait on tables for their meals. Those with higher scholastic standings are graders and coaches, and among the less scrupulous there are ghost writers who supply term papers for handsome fees. Thousands receive up to $15 a month from their National Youth Administration jobs. Colleges and universities employ a great many as pages in their libraries. The variety of student occupations is staggering.

All That Glitters . . .

(ACP)—The board of Ottawa Collegiate Institute is trying to solve a mystery of 1913, revealed in a letter from an honor student of that year. Miss Sybil Stewart complained that the "gold" medal presented to her in recognition of her scholastic standing has turned out to be nothing but gilded bronze.

Sacrifice Is Theme of Sodality Play

"In Life's Glad Morn" Given at Assembly

"Renunciation is the language of love, and sacrifice is love in action!" And so the curtain fell on the last act of "In Life's Glad Morn." A cast composed of Sodality took curtain calls for their very apt and excellent interpretation of this Queen's Work Production.

The story, as the above words would indicate, concerned the vocation for the religious life. Agnes Byrne, played by Geraldine Dugan, confided her intention of becoming a nun to Joan Graham, her roommate, and otherwise Marjorie Boeving. Agnes' death led to Joan taking her place in the religious vocation. The rest of their friends played by Evelyn Numainville, Audrey Murphy, Margaret Marlowe, Adelaide Allen, and Mary Lu Reid, prove sympathetic in all the "ups and downs" of Agnes and Joan, crying with them in their sorrows, and rejoicing with them in their happiness.

Remainder of Cast

Meanwhile, they were all kept on their good behavior by the disciplinary measures of good Sister de Paul—very excellently and realistically portrayed by Dorothy Baumstark. And to keep the place all tidied up, there were the French maid, Yvonne, Rosemary Murphy, and the little Irish maid with the good Christian name of Nora, Louise LaBarge.

It was more than a fine piece of acting, for it left behind lessons of sacrifice and love very timely for the Lenten Season in which it was given, yet always applicable to the life of college girls.

Flash! Fashion Loses Its Heart to Military Braid

By GLORIA PANDJIRIS

Make way for color! This is the fashion cry of the season. South America is influencing our clothes in color as well as style. The trend is to Caribbean Blue, Matador Red, Fiesta Green and Trinidad Tan. With names such as these, who could resist them? Jewelry, too, is affected by our Southern neighbors; however, Indian, Western, and Hawaiian motifs are also being introduced.

And speaking of jewelry fads, have you seen those new blown-glass earrings? While shopping for ear bangles, be sure you don't overlook them.

The new spring hats are a topic all to themselves, but right here I would like to say that if a pompadour hair style becomes you, get one by all means, and then a hat to go with it! It must be one worn in the prescribed way—"square on your head."

The Army and Navy have invaded young ladies' hearts in more than one way. Their brass buttons and symbols have become a wanted part of milady's wardrobe. Everyone wants at least a hat with a few stars on it or a dress with a sailor collar. Capes, too, have come

Poll Shows Eleven Per Cent of College Men Will Be In The Army By 1941

AUSTIN, Tex., April 18—Colleges and universities over the nation will lose 11 per cent of their male students to Uncle Sam's defense program this summer, if these students today accurately prognosticate their future, Student Opinion Surveys of America disclosed in the results of a national sampling. Projected against the total enrollment in colleges today, this figure suggests that more than 80,000 college men believe they will either be called by their local draft boards or else they will volunteer for their year's service instead of returning to school in the fall.

Few In Training

Because of the Selective Service Act provision permitting deferment until June 1, for all men 21 or over enrolled in school, very few undergraduates have already entered into their year of military training.

Besides the 11 per cent above, nearly 10 per cent are not planning to return to school next year, but do not believe they will be drafted or will volunteer. Nearly four-fifths of the students now in school believe they will return for at least one more year's study. This survey should not be interpreted to mean that college enrollments will be depleted by 11 per cent. This figure is merely an indication as to how much the defense program is liable to affect the college male.

Results of Poll

The exact percentages, as found by the Surveys through interviews taken on the scores of campuses participating in the poll, are as follows:

Will volunteer or be drafted	11.2%
Will return to college	79.2%
Will do neither	9.6%

into prominence this season mostly because of the military trends. These are not all navy blue—some are glen plaid, pastels, and neutral tweeds and wools. The navy blues are outstanding, though, and we think the best-looking one is lined in Victory Red and trimmed with brass buttons.

If you are Southward Bound on the Spring Trip, you will want light summer cottons and spun rayons. For the train, however, something which will neither wrinkle nor soil easily would be ideal. A suit or perhaps a glen plaid skirt with matching jerkin which can be freshened with a white silk blouse would be ideal.

(About the white silk blouse—the newest way to wear them is open at the throat.)

Speaking of jerkins, there is a blue denim one that would be perfect for sight-seeing in Havana. It is very neat and is trimmed with bright red arrows at the pocket corners.

A dress with a jacket, a suit, or an extra coat over a pretty print would do very nicely for that night on shipboard. And don't forget to include a hat that "can take it."

Lest We Forget Mr. Clemens, or, What's New in the Economics Dept.

Should we be inclined to pass over some of our department doings in all this talk of Horse Shows, Spring trips, and plays, etc., etc., it might be interesting to note what the students of economics are planning for the near future and whereabouts.

Ruth Duerr of the sociology department will talk at Missouri University, Columbia, Missouri, on April 27. Her subject will be "The Factors Influencing the Mental Disease Pattern of St. Louis."

Mr. Clemens, instructor in economics, will present a talk at the National Catholic Family Life

Conference, at Mount St. Mary's College, Milwaukee, April 30. Although a specific subject for his talk has as yet not been chosen, Mr. Clemens will speak on some phase of Catholic family life.

The entire economics department, in union with the secretarial students, is planning a tour of the social agencies and investment houses within the city.

And, lest we forget—all of the economics majors are at the present engaged in writing those all-important documents—to quote one student: "My thesis reminds me of the battle of Gettysburg." We know just what you mean.

E. Robert Schmitz, Famous Pianist, Visits College

E. Robert Schmitz, internationally famous pianist, visited Fontbonne College yesterday. Mr. Schmitz is conducting a Seminar in Piano at the Coronado Hotel from April 14 through April 18 for the benefit of teachers of piano technique.

A brilliant interpreter of the French School of Music, Mr. Schmitz has won world-wide recognition for his rendition of the works of Debussy and Ravel. His edition of the Chopin Etudes is a unique contribution to the study of the works of that composer.

Sister John Joseph, Sister Rose Margaret, and Sister Madeline Sophie, members of the Music Department faculty, are attending the seminar conducted by Mr. Schmitz on "The Significance of Technique as an Essential Element of Interpretation." Lee Maguire and Loraine Ash, students in the department, are attending some of the illustrated lectures.

Mr. Schmitz's visit to Fontbonne was arranged by Sister John Joseph, head of the Music Department.

Faculty Votes For No Change In Theses This Year

At a Faculty Meeting, April 2, discussion of the thesis or the comprehensive examination as requirements for graduation led to the decision that this year no change will be made. Theses will be submitted in most departments with all students taking the comprehensive exams on Tuesday, May 20, from 8:30 until 11:30 o'clock.

Some faculty members are reluctant to dispose of the thesis because they believe it to be a real contribution to an education. Next year it is very likely that some departments will not require the thesis, but will give the examination in its place.

Realism . . .

(ACP)—Hamilton college has one English student who goes in for realism. He wrote on "My Roommate Gives Me a Haircut." Clinging to the theme paper which he turned in to David H. Bettie, instructor, were several small, closely clipped hairs.

Senior Recitals Presented Before Large Audiences

Voegeli, Hayden, Concannon Star

Recently the Fontbonne Little Theatre was the scene of several senior recitals, one in music and two in dramatic art. All were well attended, and the audience, in each case, was very appreciative.

Alice Voegeli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Voegeli, presented her music recital on March 24. The outstanding composition was the "Concerto in A Minor, 3rd Movement" by Grieg. "The Lark" by Glinka-Balakirew and the "Ballade in A Flat" by Chopin were also presented. Alice played two of her original compositions, "A Peek in China" and "Moods", both of which are written in the modern style. Second piano accompaniments were played by Marie Sansone. Rosemary Hayden gave a dramatic reading entitled "The Blessed Damosel."

Rosemary Hayden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hayden, presented her dramatic recital, "The Barretts" by Marjorie Carleton, on April 2. The characterization of Wilson, Elizabeth Barrett's nurse, was especially good. Other characters that were well portrayed are Mr. Barrett, Elizabeth's father, and Milly, a servant in the Barrett household. The most moving and dramatic scene of this three act play was that one in which Robert Browning, Elizabeth's close friend, speaks with Wilson. There was a musical interlude between acts when Alice Voegeli played "The Lark" by Balakirew and "Garden Music" by Niemann.

Mary Concannon, daughter of Mr. John Concannon, gave her dramatic recital on April 16. She read "The Rivals" by Richard B. Sheridan. Mrs. Malaprop was a most interesting person who was very well characterized. Some of the other characters that deserve recognition are Sir Anthony Absolute, Captain John Absolute, Sir Lucius O'Trigger, and the stuttering servant. A piano selection, "Aragon" by Longas, was given by Betty Sturrock, a Fontbonne alumna.

These girls have been active participants in the activities of their particular fields throughout their college days. Alice Voegeli has been heard numerous times on the radio and in school recitals and entertainments.

Team Wins Final Game of Season, 18-17; Celebrates

The final game of the basketball season, an exciting victory for Fontbonne over Harris Teachers' College, was played here on the home grounds, March 28. Our team skinned to triumph by one point, the score being 18-17. The season totaled a five hundred percentage, three victories and three defeats.

Members of the team, Miss Willis, and Miss Mullins celebrated the closing of the season with a Dutch treat dinner at Garavelli's two weeks ago. During the course of the meal, Mary Tracy, senior, turned in her No. 4 suit and expressed her regret for having played her last basketball game at Fontbonne. The team members presented their coach, Miss Willis, with a gardenia corsage.

20 Students Competing In College Club Contest

Twenty students from Fontbonne are competing in an essay contest sponsored by the Catholic Women's College Club. The contest was open to students in Catholic colleges in St. Louis.

The subject to be treated in the essay was "Catholic Influence in the United States," and it could be approached from the angle of science, the press, sociology, movies, literature, or the drama. A prize of twenty-five dollars is offered to the student submitting the best essay, and that student's college is authorized to award it on any occasion.

'41 Fontbonne Will Have Coming Out Party May 26

The lights burn far into the night in the Press Room—members of the year book staff wander through the halls searching for the right words in the right place. Spring is here, but they wouldn't know it; they're blind to the lush green of nature's carpet, they are deaf to the chirp of the Spring's first robin. Spring is here and the April rain makes each bush a thing of loveliness, but in the Press Room heads are bent over mounds of paper, copy sheets pile up until they shut out the dappled damson of the sun's rays. Occasionally the phone rings, brrrring, and someone staggers from heaps of typewriting paper to the cupboard to gasp unintelligible phrases into the little black mouthpiece.

What is this all about? Why all this froth and foam, why all this talk of cabbages and kings? It simply means that the year book is coming out. The 1941 Fontbonne is having a coming-out party on May 26. This year's edition of The Fontbonne will be bigger and better than ever, satisfaction guaranteed, but no money back. Why? Because we've already spent it, spent it to give you more for your money, more pictures, more features, more patrons, more sponsors, a bigger and better cover, in short, a book you will be proud to own. The new feature section, will make you open your eyes in surprise to think that so much beauty adorns the Fontbonne campus—and we do mean YOU!

Since you're going to be so proud to own the '41 Fontbonne, order an extra copy NOW! The price is only $5, and we say only $5 because the book is worth $8. All orders must be in by May first. See Rosemary Haward or Barbara Raupp for additional copies.

WHY I'M WHAT I AM TODAY, OR, MY DAY... AT A CLIP JOINT

Foreword:—Before I get down to facts and figures, brethren, I'd just like to let you know that that riot of a cartoon (location—one eyeball shift to the right) has absolutely no connection with the highly educational and revealing treatise which will follow after a slight pause for Herman's draft exemption. I've been on an Easter egg binge for a week, and those darn elephants put it there when I wasn't looking.

Afterthought: Next week's feature attraction—"The Real Reason Why Lamour Wears a Sarong." Ten cents more and it's illustrated.

My dear fellow refugees from homework and similar other legalized white slavery projects, it has come to my attention that you are again in dire need of my advice.

The other night while planning the finer details of the battle of Waterloo with Napoleon, my next door neighbor at Coconut Grove (Ward No. 14 to those students who write their term papers ahead of time and consequently don't patronize our Arsenal establishment), I seemed to see your Max Factor faces before me. It was then that I knew that Arsenic Adolph had let at least one deadly secret weapon slip from beneath his mouse-tache. Believe me, it was horrible, simply horrible. As I raced for shelter, imagine my surprise when I discovered that they were wearing jackets straight this season. (Courtesy of Joe Miller, 1789.)

But, friends, I know now what was wrong with you, why you looked like something the British forgot in the retreat of 1812. It was Friday evening, and you had had a day with a typical

At four o'clock, Friday, you dragged your emaciated body, exhausted by long hours of manual labor (for which you, poor sap, actually pay to have the privilege of killing yourself with, other people get paid for working, but not you) to a beauty saloon, and gently collapse with disappointment as you enter the portals to glamour. You had thought it was just a plain saloon.

The Fontbonne staff has announced that the five dollar first prize in the year book's annual photo contest will be awarded to Helen Cahill for her candid shot of Mary Theresa Klecan. Many of the pictures entered in the contest are being used in the activity section of The Fontbonne. Those which the staff found necessary to reject because of technical photographic defects are being returned to the students who submitted them.

Mission Members Will Elect Officers May 7

The Mission Unit held its meeting April 2, in Room 401 of Ryan Hall. Alice Voegeli and Dorothy Baumstark gave talks on "What Lent Should Mean to Us" and the "Intention for April." A complete financial report was also given.

The last meeting of the Mission Unit will be held May 7, for the election of next year's officers.

Mr. Riehl Speaks On Consumer Ed. At April Assembly

Mr. W. H. Riehl, representative of the Better Business Bureau of St. Louis, was the guest of the Home Economics Department on April 14. He presented an educational lecture dealing with false and misleading advertising, the steps being taken by the Better Business Bureau to combat these insidious devices, and the contributions which college students can make to the development of an intelligent buying public. With the use of a slide machine, Mr. Riehl presented statistics showing the percentage of error found in advertising used in local papers, and demonstrated the steps taken by the Better Business Bureau over a period of several months by substantially decreasing the percentage of error in that time through the cooperation of both the advertiser and the consumers.

Consumer Education

A murmur of laughter swept through the audience when the slides revealed the various rackets which are employed to swindle the buying public. But the speaker turned the tables by pointing out that those who laugh are swindled themselves. Consumer education is a vital necessity, for the college students of today are the consumers of tomorrow. If they are intelligent consumers, they will cooperate with the Better Business Bureau in exposing fraud within the community.

Mrs. Duggan Sixth Speaker In Adult Education Series

Discusses Need of Religion In Schools

Representing Catholic womanhood and Catholic motherhood on the series of Adult Education lectures was Mrs. Jerome Duggan. Her discussion, the sixth of the group given April 15, was entitled "A Vacant Chair in the Modern College," and Mrs. Duggan expressed the need of religion in our schools, public and parochial. The courses which pertain to the influence of the Faith in the world are greatly outnumbered by those which treat with economic, social, political influence. She also spoke of the move to introduce religion in our public schools in St. Louis and throughout the nation, a movement the success of which will probably be defeated by the fact that this defeats the original plan of our country in the entire separation of Church and State.

Msgr. Carroll, April 8

When Very Rev. Msgr. Mark K. Carroll spoke on the Adult Education series, Tuesday, April 8, he summarized in three points just what Catholics should do for the Missions. They should: 1. Try to get a Catholic Mind—a charitable mind; 2. Do all they can to convert others to the True Faith; 3. Help in the material way. The topic of the discussion was "Are We Really Catholics?" and was presented to give the role Catholics should have in the Missions. More depends on the Catholics in the United States now since two-thirds of all the others of our faith are under Hitler's power and as a consequence, they can't contribute materially to the Propagation of the Faith. Msgr. Carroll is Director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith here. After his lecture, he showed two moving pictures to accent what he had said and to show the existing conditions in foreign missions. One was of the Fiji Islands; the other was a short picture made from Damien The Leper, a book about the work of Father Damien among the lepers at Molokai by John Farrow.

Msgr. Cody, April 1

Very Rev. Msgr. J. P. Cody, Vicar General of the Archdiocese of St. Louis spoke on the "Family's Vanishing Vocation" in the fourth of this series of lectures, Tuesday, April 1. His words sounded a warning to Catholics of the movement in our nation which if not stopped will be even more disastrous than Fifth Column Activities—that movement is away from family life. Every nation in which this abandonment of family life has appeared in the past, has fallen from without after internally weakening. "Our homes must not be merely houses where we sleep and eat; they must be more than that," was the lesson that was brought home by this discussion.

Hon. H. C. Blanton, March 25
"Catholic Participation in Public Affairs" presenting the problems Catholics meet in legislation, politics, and government, was discussed by the Honorable H. C. Blanton, United States District Attorney, when he gave the third of the series of lectures on the Adult Education Program, on Tuesday, March 25. Mr. Blanton emphasized the duty every citizen has to take his share in the government of the nation.

Duerr and Cejka Lead Discussion at Valley Conference

Seniors Speak on Democracy at Warrensburg

When the Mississippi Valley Regional Conference for International Peace, sponsored annually by the Carnegie Foundation, met at Warrensburg, Missouri, March 28 and 29, Ruth Duerr and Alice Cejka, both Fontbonne seniors, led the panel discussion entitled "Democracy".

The two papers given were "Economic Democracy" by Ruth Duerr, and "Political Democracy," written by Mary Ellen Flickinger, but given by Alice Cejka. Delivered at the morning session on Friday morning, they were followed by animated discussion from the floor. The material in both reports was based on the encyclicals of the Popes, which fact caused interesting reaction from those attending the conference.

41 Schools Represented

Students representing 41 schools from Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota, and Canada attended the conference. The three fields of interest into which the discussion groups were divided were: "Our Neighbors to the South," "Powers and Policies in the Orient," and "Democracy".

Also representing Fontbonne were Dr. and Mrs. A. Clemens and Dorothy Bussmann.

Students Form Spanish Club, Las Teresianas; Aim to Further Pan-American Friendship

The fact that Fontbonne College is ever alert to new ideas, and ready for suggestions was proven last week, when Las Teresianas, the Spanish Club, was begun.

The founding of such a club had long been a secret desire of many of the students studying the language. Last week the suggestion was voiced, met with the approval of the faculty, and put into effect. The name Las Teresianas was appropriately chosen, as it designates the followers of St. Teresa of Avila, a patron of the St. Joseph Order.

Aim of Club

The immediate aim of the club is to develop more fully the appreciation of the Spanish language, and through this appreciation and understanding, further the friendship between the United States and the South American countries.

Founded with much enthusiasm, Las Teresianas has undertaken several projects, among which are the presentation of a Spanish program before the Student body on May 12, and the contribution of Spanish articles to La Anapola, the Spanish publication edited by St. Louis University.

The elected officers of the club are: Lucille O'Connell, President; Henrietta Sabadell, Vice-President; and Virginia Sheehan, Secretary-Treasurer.

You Need Money, and THE FONT Needs You, How About It?

Attention—enterprising young photographers! If you have any talent at all for taking pictures, dust off your Univex and read on.

The Font needs you! The staff is convinced that within these portals moves a competent photographer, or at least a potential one. The idea of having an available photographer would enable us to get many more unposed or "spur of the moment" shots. Of course, we can't guarantee your popularity along these lines, but it's all in fun. Who knows, you might do a little blackmailing on the sly!

In addition to bearing the impressive title of "Staff Photographer," the job is not without remuneration, for its lucky possessor will be paid for each shot. And you might even sell some of the pictures of the girls to the lovely dandies themselves!

It might be worth your while to brush up on your picture-taking abilities during the summer and maybe even take a course to perfect your technique. If you're good enough, The Font will consider buying a camera with a real honest-to-goodness flashlight!

Dr. Hardy Donates 60 New Books to Library

Dr. Joseph A. Hardy has donated sixty volumes of standard works to the library. Among them are books in science, education, history, and psychology. A set of Parkman's works was also included.

Some recent additions to the library are:
Cather—Sapphira and the Slave Girl.

Roberts—Oliver Wiswell.
Werfel—Embezzled Heaven.
Kelly—Cardinal Hayes.
National Education Association—Learning the Ways of Democracy.

Poetry Club Discusses Chesterton; Plans Party

Departing from the customary program, members of the Poetry Club discussed the prose as well as the poetic works of Gilbert K. Chesterton, at their meeting held Monday, April 14, in Fine Arts Parlor. Participating in the program were Aileen Block, who read the life of Chesterton, and Kathleen McCullough, who read "The Nativity" and "The Strange Music". From his prose, Adelaide Allen reviewed his book of short stories, Four Faultless Felons, giving the story of "The Honest Quack" from that collection. Mary Alice Roche read "Lepanto". Both Geraldine Duggan and Lorraine Ash presented piano selections.

Discussion also was given to the annual party held by the poets in the Spring. This year it will be early in May; only members of the club are invited.

French Club Will Give Campus Garden Party

The French Club held its regular meeting Tuesday, April 1, in Room 301 of Ryan Hall, at 1:30 p. m.

Audrey Murphy, chairman of the entertainment for this meeting, read a paper on the symbols of France. Other papers were read by Evelyn Marie Numainville, on Bastille Day, July 14, and by Rosemary Britt, on the Seven Dolors of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Peggy McCarthy recited a French poem.

The next meeting of the French Club, to be held the third week of May, will be a garden party on the campus by the sunken garden. Patricia Luce was appointed chairman of the entertainment and will be assisted by Suzanne Nachtmann and Rosemary Murphy.

Press Club Will Give Steak Fry, May 6

The Press Club held its regular meeting Wednesday, March 27, at 10:00 in the Press Room.

Members discussed plans for a benefit for the year book. A $50.00 gift certificate was awarded to L. A. Mapel, the winner of the benefit on April 7. The Press Club supper will be held on Tuesday, May 6, in Forest Park, to the accompaniment of buzzing mosquitoes and the odor of frying steak (hamburgers to you).

At the April business meeting of the International Relations group, held the evening of April 8, it was announced that an article about accidents in the home, written by Mary Alice Chandler, will be published in the May edition of the "Catholic Family Monthly". Another article will be published in a later issue by Ruth Duerr, "The Moral Aspect of Birth Control."

Home Ec. Members Get Advice on Coiffeures

Realizing that one of the primary concerns of every college girl is her coiffeure—be it a baby bob, braids, or a more sophisticated hair-do!—the Home Economics Club featured instruction on hair styles at its regular meeting, on Thursday, April 3. Miss Crabtree and Mr. Martin from Famous-Barr Co. gave the demonstration. Miss Crabtree showed how to apply make-up, using Mexiconga Make-up. Lorraine Ash was the obliging model. Following this, Mr. Martin demonstrated different styles for wearing the hair. Afterward he conducted an informal clinic, giving advice to individuals who inquired.

When the program was completed, refreshments were served in the apartment.
