Students Visit Mother House Today

Hurry, Hur--ry, Hur--ry! Bring Pennies to Circus

Fortune Tellers, Freaks, And Circus Queen Among The Many Attractions

"Step right up folks! and for one thin copper penny you'll be admitted to the most super-colossal, gigantic, stupendous show on earth!" Yes sire! Circus day with all its clowns, side shows, and peanuts, will be Friday, October 31, this year, when the Fontbonne Athletic Association sponsors the Penny Circus. From 7:30 p. m. till 10:00 p. m., in the gymnasium, which will be the Big Top for the occasion, there will be bingo, side shows, pet shows, games such as darts, turtle races and pop guns, bowling and basketball shots. Clowns, fortune tellers with their crystal balls, and Siamese twins, are added attractions. Refreshments will be served all evening long.

Queen of the Circus
Feature of the evening will be the Circus Queen and her attendants. Four girls—one freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior—have been chosen from each class. Those thus selected will receive votes in the form of pennies preceding the circus and will continue to receive votes up until 9 p. m. that evening. The one with the most penny votes will be chosen queen and will be crowned with due ceremony at 9:30.

Anyone who has a stuffed pet that would like to walk away with a blue ribbon and a cash prize can enter the animal in the pet show for ten pennies.

Committee Members
Committee members for the Circus are as follows: General Committee: Kathryn Herman, Betty Boll, Loraine Flynt, and Rosemary

Students Hum "I Love You Truly" As Smoke Swirls

The privilege of smoking in the cafeteria daily, except during the lunch hour from twelve until one, was recently extended to students. This permission, a new one this year, excited interesting comment from students, both from those who smoke and from those who do not.

"It's amazing," said many. "Now we'll feel freer and more at home in the cafeteria," said others.

Creates Goodwill

Another student had her ideas too: "With this new privilege there's bound to be a feeling of trust and goodwill between administration and students, and that all goes to boost school spirit."

Non-smokers were of the belief that the permission was "liberal, but necessary".

Faculty Greet Students at Tea

The annual Faculty Tea, given by the faculty for the students, was held last Monday, October 13, in the Fine Arts parlor.

The receiving line was headed by our new president, Mother Mary Pius, and our new dean, Sister Joseph Aloysius.

Miss Carmody, instructor in Home Economics, was in charge of the arrangements, and student hostesses from the department prepared and served refreshments.

Annual College Day Features Freshman Induction, Decoration of Cars, Class Entertainments, Parade

Students of Fontbonne celebrate another College Day today, with all the traditional ceremonies of former years. Several new notes to the College Day procedure have been added, however. One of these is the reception of caps and gowns by the freshmen in the auditorium. The entire student body will be present, and following the induction ceremony, Mass will take place in the chapel.

Father D'Arcy, English Writer, Will Lecture At Assembly, Oct. 27

Fontbonne will present the Reverend Martin Cyril D'Arcy, S. J., as guest speaker at the assembly, October 27. He was born in England, in 1880, and educated at Stonyhurst, Oxford, and the Gregorian University in Rome. Today he is lecturer in Thomistic philosophy, at the University of Oxford. Father D'Arcy has written many books on Catholic subjects, among these are: The Mass And The Redemption; Catholicism; Christ As Priest and Redeemer; The Spirit of Charity; Thomas Aquinas; and The Nature of Belief.

He was visiting Professor of Philosophy at Fordham University in New York in 1939 and 1940. He has also given many lectures throughout the United States.

As yet Reverend D'Arcy is undecided on what subject he will lecture, however it will be either "The New Survival of the Fittest"; "Catholic Prejudices" or "Freedom and Self-Determination."

At the Mass of the Holy Ghost, which officially opens the scholastic year, Lee Maguire, a senior, will present a bouquet of lilies to St. Joseph. Lee was elected by the student body to represent the school in laying before St. Joseph all the intentions of the school year. From each class, a girl has been elected to carry a single lily. Those chosen were: Mary Ellen Boggiano, freshman; Alice Ryan, sophomore; Evelyn Numainville, junior; and Mary Theresa Klecan, senior.

Decorate Cars

Following Mass and breakfast in the cafeteria, the girls will decorate their cars for the parade to Carondelet. A prize is offered for the most original decorations, so some attractive displays are expected.

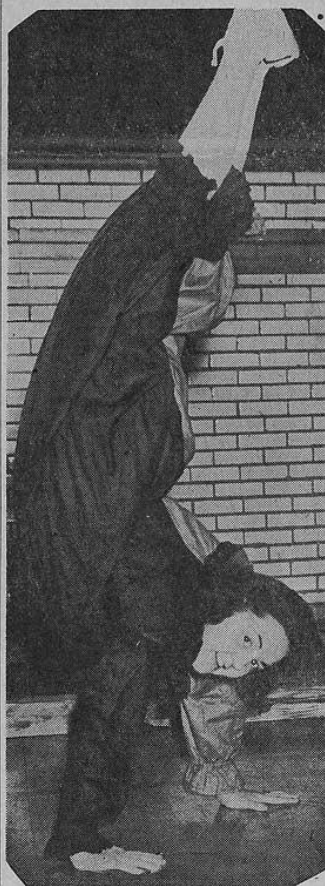

Classes Entertain

The student body will have lunch in the cafeteria at twelve o'clock and entertainment will be provided by the various classes. A song for each class will be included in the entertainment. The freshmen have selected an original skit, built around their class song. The sophomores will revert to nursery days and present a parody on "The Three Bears".

Alumnae Supports Font Drive For Subscriptions; Sponsors Benefit

A drive has been started to enlist alumnae members as subscribers to The Font. The staff is offering a special rate to the members. According to Angela Hannagan, chairman of publicity for the alumnae, the majority of those present at the last meeting subscribed. There are still many members who have not entered their names as subscribers.

Sponsoring Benefit

As an annual activity the alumnae is sponsoring a benefit. A very expensive Lewis Bag of black calf with gold trim will be given away on December 7. Cecilia Riechert is the chairman of the committee in charge of conducting the benefit.

Plans have been made by the alumnae to enter a Table Setting

Contest that Stix-Baer and Fuller is sponsoring on November 5, 6, 7. The table arrangements will be taken care of by a committee headed by Madeline Dawkins. Her assistants will be Home Economics graduates. These tables will be displayed at Stix-Baer and Fuller and, needless to say, your support will be appreciated.

Various Committees

At the last meeting several committees were appointed. The dramatic and music committees will take charge of entertainment for the meetings. The chairman of the former is Mary Belle McCoolle, and her assistants are Rosemary Case and Rosemary Hayden. Leontone Meyer is chairman of the latter and assisting her is Elise

• let's keep the privilege!

Fontbonne has at last been granted smoking privileges for all the students. It is important that all smoking be confined to the cafeteria because, since this favor was long sought, it would be foolish to abuse it. The faculty has clearly stated the circumstances under which the students may smoke, and the slightest deviation from these restrictions will result in a withdrawal of this liberty by the administration.

It must be pointed out that the cafeteria is primarily for the service of food, and the fact that smoking is permitted there should in no way detract from its cleanliness or the welfare of those who use it. Remember, there is only one hour in the day during which students are not allowed to smoke. Don't rush over at two minutes til one and light a cigarette, for one can derive no true enjoyment from this hasty procedure. To both smokers and non-smokers, there is nothing more repulsive than the sight or odor of a stale cigarette, so their feeling in this matter must be respected. A few more ash trays donated by the students might help this situation.

Let us show our appreciation by closely adhering to the rules that have been made and attempt to keep the cafeteria as neat as possible. This new kindness was meant as a convenience, not a menace.

• physically, intellectually, and . . . spiritually!

It's not that we purposely neglect that third and all important side of Catholic college life! No, not that! It's just that we follow the path of least resistance which leads inevitably to the den or to the cafeteria. On the physical side we take physical education, we go riding, we go out for the hockey team, and intellectually, we even study for tests and quizzes and visit the library occasionally; but that spiritual side needs a little boosting.—Just a little!

After all, we do go to a Catholic school, and that school has a Sodality and that Sodality has lots of members, but it should have every one of you there when the monthly meeting comes around. That's the center of spiritual life in the college. That's where you find out about the Rosary Recitation every afternoon at 12:45 in the Chapel during October; that's where you learn the deep religious significance of College Day and the St. Joseph ceremony on that day; that the Sodality has Missa Recitata on every first Friday and Communion followed by all day Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament with the Guard of Honor of Students. Then, too, in mission meetings you'll hear about saving stamps and pennies for the poor missionaries who are laboring to spread the Faith. Oh, there are lots of outlets for that spiritual side, and it's high time we begin to appreciate the fact!

Marie Sansone is accompanist to Mr. DeConto who performed here last year. Mr. DeConto is one of the first cellists with the St. Louis symphony orchestra.

Sister St. Luke, assistant librarian, left last Wednesday for a convention of librarians in Denver, Colorado.

College students over the country are estimated to earn more than $32,000,000 a year.

One of the scholarships offered by Harvard University is restricted to Students who formerly sold newspapers.

Average expenses of students at Yale University are estimated at $1,800. (ASCP)

Let's Talk It Over . . .

Snakey Snoosings:

Overheard in Biology class:
Teacher: Metabolism is the sum total of the two processes that go on in the body. One is anabolism, the building up process. Can anybody give me the name of the breaking down process? It is another ism and starts with a K.
Sophomore (can you guess who): Kommunism.

At the V. P. Ball:

A certain blonde junior was seen thrusting her little left paw into his big one. He held it tenderly for a moment. He spoke. "There's just one thing that this hand needs."

"Yes?" she faltered as her great big blue eyes filled with happiness.

"This tiny hand needs," he hesitated, "A new manicure."

What Junior to What Sophomore Said:

"I see you got your French paper back. What did you get?"

Soph—"Oh, I was underwater when I took that test."

Junior—"Underwater? Don't you mean under the weather?"

Soph—"No, underwater. I was below C level."

In the Den—

Freshman, combing her hair—"Are there any hairs on my back?"

Another freshman: "Take your sweater off, dearie, and I'll see."

The Feud Is On:

What two Sophomores are said to be fighting for the same individual? We intend to be on hand, for each round, and will notify you as to the outcome. Shucks, he's not worth worrying over, after all he's not Heaven is he, so he doesn't Warren(T) It.

Can You Feature?

Betty Boll without her dimples? Jo Lorenz without her witticism?

Candlelight without Mary Bass? Rosejean Kislung or Jane Callahan tail and gaudy?

Lee Maguire off key? Lorraine Ash being serious?

Henny Binder without her convertible?

Pat Luce with a Brooklyn accent?

Audrey Murphy getting lazy?

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

Dear Editor:

Perhaps a freshman should be seen and not heard, but I just have to say a few words about that grand freshman week, and you upper-classmen will simply have to grin and bear it.

With the exception of those awful placement tests, everything about the week was super. The picnic, parties, and sodality tea really helped in getting the freshmen acquainted with each other, the student body, and Fontbonne itself.

I've heard that freshman week was a new idea here at Fontbonne, and we were the guinea-pigs. Well, let me say no guinea-pigs ever enjoyed themselves so much.

Fontbonne's experiment was a success, and here's hoping future freshmen will have as much fun in their first week at Fontbonne as we did.

Signed,

A Wearer of the Green.

Did You Know?

The new book of etiquette says: "Soup must be eaten with a spoon." Those who have been using a knife or fork should be ashamed of themselves.

If We Could Only Be:

A girl with the eyes of Alvira Gross, Jane Duddy's complexion, Tutti Nachmann's disposition, Evelyn Numainville's brains, Betty Higgins' soft voice, Kank Pendergast's good natured ways, Joe Lorenz's ability for playing the drums, Liz Lucas' athletic ability, the poise of Aileen Block, and Mary Margaret Gibbons' personality—all rolled into one.

We Take It Back:

Two weeks ago we mentioned the fact that one sophomore had a gleam in her eyes, bright enough to be a lamp. The same sophomore informs us this week that "The Lamp is Low."

Bee Leave It Or Don't:

Mary had a little watch. She swallowed it—it's gone. Now every time that Mary walks, Time—Marches—On. And so do we.

Freshman Says, 'Stupendous'; Senior Says, 'Stupid', to New Campus Craze

Trailing from one hall to the other, endeavoring to get the opinion of many fair damsels, the Inquiring Reporter received these answers to the question selected for this week:

"What do you think of the college girl adopting pigtails?"

Pat Burke, senior—"I believe in the old principle, 'While in Rome, do as the Romans do,' but this isn't China."

Rosejoan (Pee Wee) Kislung, freshman—"When we old 'uns get started in college, the first thing we do is begin thinking of ways to make us look younger. After much mental exertion we arrive at the conclusion that we all like football. Then after much deliberation we derive pigskins from football. From thence we get pig-tails—and there it is—a new fad, all ready to be taken up by those who like it. As for me, I like it fine."

Mary McKeon, sophomore—"One can readily see that Fontbonne girls are the typical glamour type. Pigtails definitely detract from that glamour."

Jacqueline Broe, sophomore—"All us girls are either studious or popular, maybe both. At any rate, we don't have much time for putting up our hair. Therefore, pigtails are the answer to a maiden's prayer."

Dot Casey, sophomore—"Pig-tails are a blessing when hair is at the stringy, oily, stage. I wear them often."

Dorothea Wells, senior—"Simply abominable. Keep them on the pigs."

Mary Virginia Richards, junior—"They're fine for some folks, but frankly I'd look like a skinned rabbit."

Mary Margaret Gibbons, senior—"The college girl should have a permanent, not pigtails. Preferably the new type of permanent like mine, less curls for defense."

Mary Kay Shuler, freshman—"They're the thing for campus, taboo on dates."

Alvera Gross, junior—"I don't like them. They're not for me."

Rosemary Murphy, sophomore—"They're comfortable. Definitely for the person who doesn't care how she looks. I'm the one who doesn't."

Audrey Murphy, junior—"Charitably or truthfully?"

Betty Murphy Also At Carondelet

Gerry Dugan, graduate of 1941, entered the Sisters of Saint Joseph of Carondelet, September 15. As prefect of the Sodality and May Queen, she was prominent in school activities. She was selected for Kappa Gamma Pi, the National Catholic Honour Society, in her senior year and was graduated magna cum laude. She was a member of the varsity basketball and hockey teams. As a junior, Gerry was elected to Who's Who, an honour given only to those students who have shown themselves outstanding in leadership, scholarship, character, and integrity. She majored in Latin, and as a junior was president of the classical club. A leader in scholarship, athletics, and all school activities, Gerry proved herself an ideal Fontbonne girl.

Betty Murphy, of Kansas City, another 1941 graduate, also entered the Saint Joseph order in September. She majored in art and was secretary of Delta Phi. As a senior, Betty was elected treasurer of her class and a member of the Spiritual Council. She attended Saint Theresa's College in Kansas City for her freshman and sophomore years.

Mother Mary Pius Addresses Students On Catholic Education

Physical, Intellectual, and Spiritual Levels Are Vital Factors In College Life

Appearing for the first time before the student body in her new guise as President of the College, Mother Mary Pius addressed the assembly, Monday, October 6. Her message awoke in the students a clear realization of the why's and wherefore's of college education—but in particular a Catholic college education.

There'll Be An End!

Every student looks toward the end wondering what it will bring—the freshman to the end of the four years of her education—the seniors to the end of life! To realize that end it is necessary for each of us to fit ourselves in to the Divine scheme—not bend it to our human plans. To build up ourselves to fulfill God's plan for us we must consider three things: (1) the physical; (2) the intellectual; and (3) the spiritual.

Physically, every young woman wishes to be beautiful—it's a natural desire. Physical development is provided for in college by athletics and hygiene—to make a perfect woman.

Intellectual Level

The second level, the intellectual, isn't the only one that is called important in college, as some people believe. It was found recently in a survey that the students desire the following points in a teacher, and the coincidence is that the teachers look for the same thing in students: (1) that she know her subject; (2) that she be interested in it; (3) that she never stop studying; (4) that she shows growth from year to year; (5) that she has orderly standards of work; (6) that she express herself freely; (7) that she be polite; (8) that she is enthusiastic; (9) and that she is intellectually honest!

Just Slipping By!

You can always slip by, and there really are many students who go all the way through college and obtain a mass of information, but do not have a trained mind. At the time of the founding of Fontbonne College it was said: "Let's hope Fontbonne College isn't going to be just another woman's college . . . that it will produce a distinctive product."

Let us be earnest students. Then if you really master your subject, you'll be able to use it. A student who leaves college should be able to earn a living.

Beatrice Burke Wins Radio Contest

Beatrice Burke of Atlanta, Georgia, this year's freshman class president, was one of the prize winners in a radio play contest sponsored last spring by station WATL in that city. The contest was open to all the students in the fifth district high schools of Atlanta. The script, a comedy, entitled "Windsor Castle". We learn from Beatrice that all the characters are strictly fictitious, excepting Queen Elizabeth—you remember her!

As a result of a suggestion made by Mother Mary Pius, plans to present the prize-winning work on Saint Louis University's station, WEW, are being discussed.

Debs Seem Drab As Fontbonne Glamour Girls Steal Style Show at V.P. Ball

When His Mysterious Majesty, the Veiled Prophet of Khorrosan, made his annual appearance on October 8 of this year, bevy of beautiful Fontbonne girls were present to welcome him. The theme of the Ball was the Circus, and the Municipal Auditorium was resplendent in flame and gold with accents of venetian blue.

Debutantes and society matrons were gowned in the best St. Louis has to offer, and Fontbonne girls were definitely not out-spotted.

Some of our up and coming freshmen also gave the folks a break and condescended to put in their appearance.

"Pete" Wolff chose navy blue with a solid color bodice and white and blue checked skirt, while "Liz" Lucas wore white lace billowing into a bouffant skirt.

A very feminine heaven blue net complemented Grace Noonan's delicate coloring. The neckline was trimmed with blue ostrich feathers dyed to match the skirt.

Dorothy Sackbauer was outstanding in a full-skirted long waisted dress of gold brocaded satin. In her hair she wore a gold sequin butterfly.

Emerald green taffeta was fashioned into a stunning dress for Evelyn Hurley. Ruchings of the same material circled into an "off the shoulder effect" and swirled around a full skirt. Her only ornament was an orchid in her hair.

Betty Shuh wore white satin with rhinestone forming the shoulder straps and trimming the bodice.

The full skirt was unadorned. Alice Ryan's Irish beauty was complemented by powder blue net fashioned with a low waistline and trimmed with narrow bands of pink moire.

The Menges wore dresses designed somewhat alike—Jimmy in peach satin and net; Mary Louise, in blue.

Black net and sequins were Mary McKeon's choice for glamour.

And so the Prophet has returned to his Mystical Kingdom, but he will come back next year to his Court of Love and Beauty, and Fontbonne girls will have another opportunity to grace a perfect occasion.

SPOTLIGHT

This week our senior spotlight is focused on Jane Marie Simon.

Jane Marie Simon

many with her major in math (no puns intended).

Ever So Gay!

Rare, indeed, is the personality which can be light hearted and gay, and at the same time sincere and understanding. Such is Jane Marie's. If the worries of the world are too much for you and everything seems to go wrong, remember that Jane Marie will sympathize with you and at the same time change your whole sad outlook.

The most important hobby in Jane Marie's life is baseball and a rather expensive one too. She'll never get over the five dollars she lost on the Dodgers, and they were such a sure bet—so she thought. Horseback riding occupied a lot of Jane Marie's time until she took up bowling, and Marie Sansone can tell you what a whiz Jane is at that.

Ever So Domestic!

Turning to the domestic side—Jane enjoys cooking and she's still looking forward to the time when she'll finish that sweater she started when she was a freshman. However, there seems to be much more of a chance for us to see Jane Marie as a teacher or a statistician than there is for us to see the last sleeve on that sweater cast off.

New reporters on The Font are as follows: Dorothea Wells, Mary Virginia Richards, Alice Ryan, Loraine Flynt, Elizabeth Anne Lucas, Dorothy Sackbauer and Pat Dugan.

Hockey Sticks Will Clash Oct. 21 As Fontbonne Harasses Harris

Team To Be Selected This Week; Basketball Practice Scheduled

The editor requested a colorful sports item, and we knew it could be found on the hockey field, where many black and blue shins (attached to the bodies, of course), were chasing up and down the field, full of enthusiasm for the first official bully (that was technical, not a slang name for our opponents). By the way, our opponents, who bring the season out of hock October 21, are Harris Teachers. This game will be played at Forest Park.

Team Candidates

The team is to be selected this week from among the following candidates: Mary Alice Guelker, Louise LaBarge, Rainalda Igoe, Betty Boll, Hank Sabadell, Elizabeth Ann Lucas, Marilyn McAteer, Anna Sansone, Mary Catherine Schuler, Katherine Hernan, Jane Duddy, Pat Burke, Ruth McNamara, Mary Virginia Kohl, Betty Knetzger, Edwina Wright, Frances Lynch, Rosemary Ward, and Gloria Pandjiris.

Don't Forget Basketball

But maybe your interest is centered on basketball—'tis it? Be on guard and come forward when basketball is tossed in for practice during part of the hockey time—three to five on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

College Day

An original skit by Betty Higgins, entitled "From Bombers", is promised by the juniors. Evelyn Hurley and Jo Lorenz have collaborated in writing a take-off on a radio program for the seniors. Following this, the judges will announce the winner of the car decoration contest.

Parade

Automobiles will then assemble in the horseshoe according to classes, the seniors leaving first. A police escort has been provided to insure against accidents along the way.

At Carondelet, a social gathering will meet in the auditorium and refreshments will be served. The students are encouraged to inspect the convent and the grounds.

Be Devasting ... Just For A Day!

The individual class photographs for the 1941-1942 year book are being taken at the Edwyn's Studios on 38 North Euclid. The time for having the pictures taken is extending over a two-week period, which began last Monday, October 13, and will continue through Friday, October 24. Those who wish day appointments must contact Betty Higgins, Photo Editor of The Fontbonne, to fill out an application card. These cards will be turned over to the studio for their record file. Evening appointments are to be made directly with the studio.

You'll Wear—

As to dress: the seniors will have one picture in cap and gown and another in sports shirt. The undergrads will have one picture in pater pan blouse and a sweater.

Delta Phi Entertains Pledges With Puppet Show

The newly elected treasurer of Delta Phi is Mary Pat Halinan, and the new publicity agent is Betty Higgins.

Delta Phi entertained its pledges at a party given last Monday evening.

Early in the evening games were played, and refreshments were served. Later on an exhibition of work completed in previous years was presented.

Miss Baer, College Alumnae, States That Library Is Becoming Students' Haven

The educational demands of Fontbonne students have radically changed the policy of the school library. So said Miss Baer, college librarian and a graduate of Fontbonne in 1929, in an interview with a college reporter.

Libraries Different

Miss Baer stated that library procedure today compared with that of a decade ago, is fundamentally different in its nature. She affirmed that in those years there was no reserve system for books, but that there was more voluntary reading on the part of the students. Miss Baer amplified her statement by saying that the decrease in more recent years of voluntary reading is due, not to a loss of interest, but to the growing practice of a definite assignment in reference work by college instructors. While it does allow less time for self-selected reading Miss Baer believes that this system is more definite and the readings of a class can be judged on a more uniform basis.

More Time In Library

Although the student enrollment has increased rapidly, Miss Baer asserted that still a greater number of students spend more time in the library than previously. This is due somewhat to the fact that students are acquainted with methods of library procedure in a series of instructions given to each freshman class. With greater student patronage, there is a consequent rise in circulation and Miss Baer stated that periodicals, especially science and psychology journals, are in constant demand.

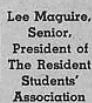

Realize Value

Summing up her opinions on library usage, our librarian said that the students of today realize the value of the library as a supplement to textbook information and spend the greater part of their spare time in study there.

Las Teresianas Forms Plans For This Year

Mr. Monaghan of the Spanish Department has announced that the Spanish Club, "Las Teresianas", will continue to function in Fontbonne College.

The club was begun late last year by Spanish conscious students for the purpose of creating a better understanding of the language, as well as to make the student of Spanish more familiar with his neighbors of the Spanish speaking countries of Mexico and of South America.

Although the exact date for the first meeting of the club has as yet not been announced, it will take place within the next week.

Home Ec. Club Will Entertain Freshies at Party

At a meeting of the Home Economics Club, October 8, plans were made for a party to entertain the freshmen, tomorrow evening at 7:30 p. m. Entertainment and an old-fashioned taffy pull will be highlights of the evening.

Several changes were made in the constitution of the club. Initiation for new members has been postponed until the second semester during which time prospective members must complete a project for admittance into the club.

Dr. Willet Will Lecture At Phi Beta Chi Meeting

Phi Beta Chi, the chemistry club, will hold its initial meeting of the year in the Ryan Hall Den, Thursday, October 16, at 8 p. m.

Footlights Club Gives Tea; Josepha Lectures

The Footlights Club entertained old and prospective members at a tea Wednesday, October 8, in the Ryan Hall den. Joseph Lorenz, president, welcomed the new girls and introduced them to Rosemary Hayden, last year's president and guest of honor. Rosemary read two poems—"Blue Valentine" and "How Do I Love Thee."

Point System

Josepha explained the point system which is used in judging new members. Anyone interested in dramatics, either in the production or acting division of it, is urged to try out for the organization.

Double Feature

But it seems that the president couldn't resist the temptation of closing the meeting by introducing a truly serious note into the afternoon's program. She discussed the social problem of the "Double Feature." According to Josepha, it is responsible for malnutrition, lack of sleep, the separation of families, and unemployment. Did we report that this was a serious discussion? It might have started out as one, but it ended in a one woman riot.

F. A. A. Outlines Point System to New Members

At the initial meeting of this year, the point system was explained to the new F. A. A. members so that those who wish to win numerals, letters, and sweaters, could begin earning their points by engaging in individual as well as group activities.

Already there is much interest in hockey, basketball, and the far-distant Spring Show. These activities seem to have grasped for themselves more and more of college life here at Fontbonne.

Conference Delegates Speak at I.R.C. Meeting

The first meeting of the International Relations Club was held last night at 7:30 at which time officers for the coming year were elected. Mary Alice Chandler and Roslyn Rohman, both of whom represented Fontbonne at the Catholic Rural Life Conference at Jefferson City, presented part of their talk and also gave highlights of the conference.
