

Fontbonne University

Department of Family & Consumer Sciences

Recognition and Hooding Ceremony

MA in FCS

*Individualized Supervised
Practice Pathway (ISPP)*

Saturday, December 15, 2018 3:00—4:00 p.m.

CLASS OF 2018

Congratulations to our Graduates:

Brenna Allard

Elizabeth Beattie

Ryan Collins

Julia Helen Dalton

Nikki Finkenthal

Olivia Fuselli

Alice Green

Lauren Rachel Holfeld

Cassie McAllister

Devon Murray

Kenneth Roberts

Samantha M. Zlotorzynski

Recognition and Hooding Ceremony
Individualized Supervised Practice Pathway (ISPP)

Procession.....Graduates, Faculty, and Administration

Introduction.....Dena French, Ed.D., R.D.N., L.D.
Dietetics Program Director & ISPP Coordinator

Welcome.....Gale Rice, Ph.D.
Dean, College of Education and Allied Health Professions

Remarks.....Carey Adams, Ph.D.
Vice President for Academic Affairs

Keynote Address.....Shannon Ebron, MS, RDN, LD
2018 Outstanding Preceptor of the Year; Fox C-6 School District

Student Speakers.....Ryan Collins and Lauren Holfeld
2018 ISPP Class Representatives

Recognition and Placing of the Hoods.....FCS Faculty

Closing Remarks.....Dena French, Ed.D., R.D.N., L.D.
Dietetics Program Director & ISPP Coordinator

Please join us for a reception immediately following the ceremony on the first floor of Anheuser Busch Hall

Catered by the ISPP class of 2019

The mission of the College of Education and Allied Health Professions is to provide clinical, classroom, and community experiences in order to continue Fontbonne University's tradition of excellence in teacher, therapist, and allied health professional education. Programs offered in the departments of Education and Special Education, Communication Disorders and Deaf Education, and Family & Consumer Sciences are committed to enhancing both the personal and professional growth of individuals who will respect diversity, value lifelong learning, and make professional decisions guided by evidence based practice. Graduates will serve children, adults and their families through the life cycle in a variety of settings.

Hooding ceremonies are held by institutions of higher education to recognize students and the hard work that goes into achieving an advanced degree. The ceremony is a time when individual schools and programs can acknowledge the accomplishments of their graduates in a more personal way than is permitted at the university's general commencement. It is a special part of academic insignia and signifies scholarly, professional, and personal achievement.

Fontbonne University is proudly sponsored by the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet